WOMAN'S WELFARE IN FUTURE LIES IN HEART OF YOUTH

Dr. James W. Robertson and Col. J. L. Biggar Address Canadian Club

Junior Red Cross Great Force For International Peace

Voicing a plea for the future well-being of the nation through the health of its youth, Dr. James W. Robertson and Col. J. L. Biggar addressed the Canadian Club of Victoria to-day at the Empress Hotel. Stressing the importance of guarding the health of children who constitute the nation of tomorrow, both Col. Biggar and Dr. Robertson pointed to the invaluable work which the Red Society of Canada is accomplishing and the splendid effort of the Junior Red Cross, which is as widespread as its parent-body.

Junior Red Cross, said Col. Biggar, is a great force in the encouraging of international tolerance and understanding, goodwill and peace than any other force which the world has ever seen.

Dr. Robertson, who is an internationally famous figure in Red Cross work, told his audience of the signing of the Article in the Covenant of the League of Nations, pledging the countries signatory to the Treaty of Versailles to adopt measures for safeguarding the health of the young nations, and assured his hearers that a campaign which would be felt throughout the world, would shortly be launched in this direction and with this end in view.

To make the work of the Red Cross Society lasting, Col. Biggar and Dr. Robertson were devoting their time and energy towards interesting the youth of Canada in the efforts of the organization, said Col. A. W. R. Wilby, president of the Canadian Club.

Col. Biggar left here as officer commanding 13th Field Ambulance, organized in Victoria, and was now Chief Commissioner of the Canadian Red Cross Society, said Col. Wilby, introducing the first speaker. Col. Biggar paid a high tribute to Dr. Robertson, whose great work for the Red Cross of Canada was so far-reaching and remarkable that it marked the history of the world.

PEACE TIME WORK
The peace time work of the Red Cross Society, said the speaker, was probably more valuable in Canada than it was during the war.

During the war there was a tremendous large proportion of men who were physically unfit to bear arms in the greatest struggle the world had ever seen. So it was that the great nations of the world set about to impose on signatory nations of the League of Nations a pledge to keep standing and flourishing the national voluntary Red Cross organizations to improve health, fight disease and alleviate suffering throughout the world.

Canada was obligated to assist in this work, for her representatives had signed the Versailles Treaty, which contained the clause bringing the nation this duty.

AN OBLIGATION
"This is an obligation which the Canadian people will not treat as a scrap of paper," said Col. Biggar.

In 1918, the Red Cross was as a result of the war.

REPORT FOUR ARMY CORPS ARE READY FOR ACTION DECLARED FALSE

Constantinople, Oct. 15.—It was authoritatively stated here to-day there was no foundation for rumors that Turkey had mobilized four army corps.

A Reuter dispatch from Constantinople to London said newspapers there asserted Turkey had mobilized four army corps in the "threatened region."

The dispatch did not explain where the "threatened" region was, nor give any further details.

WASHINGTON CHIEF

Effort Being Made Against Hartley as Result of University Dispute

Seattle, Oct. 15.—Places on a permanent committee to institute recall proceedings against Governor Roland H. Hartley have been taken by citizens in each of the State of Washington's thirty-nine counties, according to Worrall Wilson, Seattle banker. He stated to-day he would probably name a committee of about 200 to-morrow night or Monday.

Pierce County alumni of the University of Washington last night began organization for a recall campaign.

Dr. Henry Suzzallo, an enrolled indefinite leave of absence as president of the University of Washington, said to-day he would remain at the president's home on the campus, where he has lived for the last eleven years, unless the board of regents at their meeting here to-morrow should force him to move.

The move for the recall of Governor Hartley is an outgrowth of the ousting of Dr. Suzzallo as head of the University, the Hartley majority of the board of regents.

PASSENGERS FROM WRECKED STEAMER REACH WHITEHORSE

Taken by Auto From Scene of Yukon River Wreck to Town

Steamer Dawson, With Big Hole in Hull, Abandoned By Owners

Whitehorse, Y.T., Oct. 15.—Passengers from the steamer Dawson, wrecked at Rink Rapids in the Yukon River on Wednesday, are reaching here by automobile. It is expected, all will have arrived in time to take the train for Skagway to catch the steamer Princess Mary there for Vancouver October 20.

There is a good trail from Rink Rapids to a point on the Overland Road about two miles south of Yukon Crossing and that facilitated the movement of the delayed passengers.

The road from Rink Rapids to Whitehorse, a distance of 155 miles, is rough but solid, as the recent cold kept it from all the soft spots.

BIG HOLE IN HULL
Passengers who have arrived here state the Dawson struck a rock in the rapids at 9:30 Wednesday morning, tearing a big hole in her hull under the boiler. She settled on the rocks where she had struck. The bow held on the rocks and the stern was only forty feet from shore. The passengers and crew remained on board and suffered no inconvenience as the engine room crew was able to maintain steam in the boiler and the passenger accommodations had not been damaged.

WRECK ABANDONED
The back of the steamer is broken and the engine-room, which is on the main-deck aft, is flooded. No effort will be made to save the steamer as it is almost impossible to place in which to conduct salvage operations and it is too late in the season to risk other equipment. The streams are throwing ice.

LITTLE EXCITEMENT
There was excitement for a few minutes after the Dawson had gone on the rocks, but all the passengers are old-timers in the Yukon and quickly realized that with the low water and the position of the steamer there was little danger. They took their philosophical attitude as to the disaster, and congratulated themselves conditions were no worse.

LABOR PARTY IN BRITAIN URGED TO FIGHT IN HOUSE

London, Oct. 15 (New York Herald-Tribune Special Cable)—Demanding the Labor Party "do more fighting instead of submitting to parliamentary procedure," said Ellen Wilkinson, M.P., who recently returned from a visit to the United States on behalf of the striking coal miners, figured in an angry brush with her leader, Ramsay MacDonald, at the session of Labor Party conference at Margate yesterday.

The debate between Miss Wilkinson and Mr. MacDonald followed a speech by John J. Keefe, minister of labor, which he charged the leaders had not fought hard enough against the eight-hour bill.

RUM-RUNNERS ARE NOT SO NUMEROUS

Customs Inquiry Counsel Say Seizures Clearing Situation off Atlantic Coast

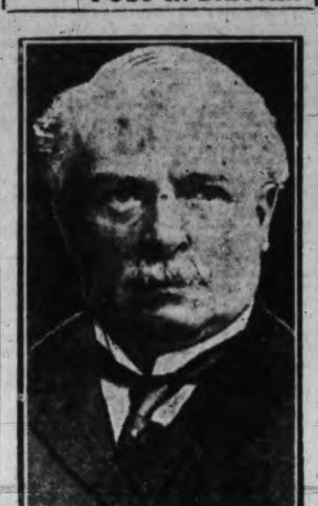

Ottawa, Oct. 15 (Canadian Press)—W. F. O'Connor, K.C., government counsel in the judicial inquiry into the customs service at the sittings in the Maritime Provinces, in a statement issued here, revealed that for about the past week he had been preparing arguments upon points of law arising out of the St. John and Halifax hearings of the commission. He said he had been so engaged at the written request of Chief Justice Sir Francis Lemieux, who "explained to me that my dismissal (as I declare upon political grounds, which nobody would dispute) was a result of my refusal to accept the commission's conclusions as commissioner, I was."

SEIZURE OF CRAFT
Outlining the basis of the argument in preparation, Mr. O'Connor said:

"The most serious matter for argument will be as to the right of Canadian customs cruisers to arrest at sea, outside the three-mile limit, and confiscate the ships and cargoes of Canadian rum-runners. The Department of Customs, while under the direction of Hon. H. H. Stevens, following my advice, made some arrests of such vessels at sea, and I understand the new Government is pursuing the same policy, with the results that Canadian rum-runners are quite scarce now along the Atlantic seaboard."

"The Chief Justice desires a very full argument as to the international law involved."

CANDIDATE FOR LIBERAL LEADER'S POST IN BRITAIN

RT. HON. DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

LLOYD GEORGE IS EXPECTED TO BE LIBERAL LEADER

Opinion is Held He Will Succeed Oxford as Head of Party in Britain

London, Oct. 15.—The Earl of Oxford and Asquith having definitely retired from the leadership of the Liberal Party of Great Britain, Right Hon. David Lloyd George, ex-Premier and the party's leader in Parliament, will be chosen for the post, it is held.

In addition to Mr. Lloyd George there are other aspirants for leadership of the party, notable among them being Sir John Simon, former Home Secretary, who in recent months has been one of the adverse critics of Mr. Lloyd George.

The Earl of Oxford and Asquith, who was first elected to the House of Commons in 1892, was the leader of the Liberal Party for eighteen years ago. He was Premier from 1905 to 1916. He is seventy-four years of age.

ARMISTICE MESSAGE FROM WINNIPEG

Alleged Man Wanted for McPherson Trial in Los Angeles is in That City

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—A telegram was received at District Attorney Keyes's office here to-day, as follows:

"Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 15.—District Attorney Asa Keyes, Los Angeles: 'Orniston stick. Will surrender if granted immunity. This is last offer. Reply through press.' (Signed) T. F. Keyes's answer was brief. He said: 'I will not grant immunity. That is final.'"

CHARGE AGAINST WITNESS
A veiled charge that Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Siefert, the state's chief witness in the Almee Semple McPherson conspiracy trial, has been connected with the group known as "The Avengers," which once protected itself into the disappearance case, was made here to-day by W. I. Gilbert, chief defence counsel.

RUMORS IN WINNIPEG
Winnipeg, Oct. 15.—Reports were current in this city to-day that Kenneth G. Orniston, fugitive co-defendant in the Almee Semple McPherson case in Los Angeles, was in Winnipeg, ill in a hospital, willing to surrender if immunity was promised by the Los Angeles authorities.

The police and hospital authorities had no comment to make on the rumors, which could not be verified from any source.

UNSOLVED QUESTION
Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—The Carmel episode of the Almee Semple McPherson mystery remained an unsolved question to-day, with the identity of "Miss X," the unknown factor.

The "little lady of Carmel," who made her debut in the McPherson case by swearing she was the companion of Kenneth G. Orniston, fugitive radio man, during a journey to Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, last May and then vanished from sight, has been partly identified by Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman Siefert, confessed perpetrator of the "Miss X" canard.

Mrs. Siefert, a co-defendant with Mrs. McPherson and six others, and the evangelist's accuser in the conspiracy hearing now in progress, testified yesterday she knew "Miss X" to be Rachel Wells of Philadelphia. Her present whereabouts were unknown to Mrs. Siefert, she declared.

She said she had reason to believe the woman who had accompanied her to Salinas, Calif., and signed the now-famous "Miss X" affidavit in an attempt to clear Mrs. McPherson of the stigma of the Carmel episode, was now residing in New Orleans.

HALT IN PLAN TO RAISE ASSESSMENT BUSINESS AREA

Technical Error in Marking Notice Cards Causes Delay

Owners and Agents Delegation Protests to Revision Court

A technical error in notice cards, mailed owners of high rental downtown business properties has temporarily halted proposals of the Court of Revision of the assessment roll to increase assessments.

Proceedings will be resumed on Friday, November 5, at 10 o'clock at the City Council Chamber, new cards being mailed at once to all parties concerned.

DELEGATION PROTEST
At this morning's session of the Court of Revision a large delegation of realty owners and agents concerned in the proposed increases presented arguments against higher assessments, and were informed by Chairman William Marchant of the adjournment of decision.

Another surprise for the delegation was the forecasting by Chairman Marchant of heavy reductions in assessment of lower Johnson Street and waterfront lots.

As sitting at the Court of Revision with Chairman Alderman Marchant were Mayor J. C. Carl Pender, Aldermen E. S. Woodward, J. Harvey and C. Holmes. The delegation of prominent citizens was headed by A. J. Swinerton, J. Keith Wilson, R. H. Shanks and Stephen Jones.

INSUFFICIENT NOTICE
Mr. Swinerton introduced the delegation as representing an important public meeting, which had almost unanimously denounced proposals to increase the tax basis of the best property in the business section of the city. Chairman Marchant asked if specific instances were to be discussed, and was informed: "In a general way we are protesting the whole of the proposed increases."

Mr. Swinerton objected to increases at this time, in view of the insufficiency of notice given owners. He denied the right of the court to make assessments under the circumstances.

Chairman Marchant interjected that only five days' notice is legally required, and that the owners had been accorded much longer warning. Mr. Swinerton countered by reference to the many owners of Victoria property who are residing in England.

RENTALS NOT RAISED
Rentals have not been increased for many years, although owners have had to meet taxation of improvements he said. Properties have not earned a reasonable return on (Continued on Page 2)

U. S. DIRIGIBLE MAKES VOYAGE

Detroit, Oct. 15.—The United States navy's giant dirigible Los Angeles cast off from the Ford airport mooring mast at 3:42 o'clock and on a voyage to Lakehurst, N.J., from which place she had arrived at 3:28 a.m., being anchored safely to the mooring tower two and a half hours later.

The big airship completed the voyage from Lakehurst to Dearborn, the objective of the ill-fated expedition, in slightly more than sixteen hours. Weather conditions encountered along the route were generally good, and the ship functioned well, said members of the crew. Thousands of persons waited all night for the arrival of the dirigible at the airport and cheered as the big gray bulk moved into sight.

The ship hovered about the mooring mast more than two hours. Finally lines were caught, and the great dirigible was drawn gently down by means of a traveling mooring grove.

The leading tower is the newest of its kind, the invention of Herbert Thaddeus of Detroit, and the Los Angeles was the first large airship attached to it.

STOCK PRICES IN NEW YORK SUDDENLY BREAK

New York, Oct. 15.—A flood of selling orders swept down on the stock market here to-day, carrying prices of many active railroad and industrial issues four to eleven points lower.

United States Steel and General Motors both lost four to five points and extreme declines of more than eleven points were recorded by Du Pont and Cast Iron Pipe.

ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT BY WAY OF TWO POLES IN PLANE MAY BE ATTEMPTED

London, Oct. 15.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen, says a round-the-world flight by way of the North and South Poles is being discussed among members of the Amundsen-Ellsworth Polar expedition, which flew across the North Pole last May in the dirigible Norge.

This statement is credited to Dr. Finn Malmgren, meteorologist and oceanographer on the polar flight and a close friend of Capt. Roald Amundsen.

Dr. Malmgren believes the world flight feasible with an aeroplane having eight motors, but says the actual plans have not been formulated.

ROAD CLOSED TO FAMOUS GARDENS

While the private roadway which leads from the trunk road into Benvenuto, R. P. Butchart's famous Tod Inlet gardens, is being paved the grounds which are usually open to visitors will be closed, according to an announcement made this morning by the owner. Thousands of automobiles pass over the strip of road that leads through the seed garden just outside the main gates of the estate and it is this road that is being resurfaced. From October 25 until further notice this road will be closed.

GEORGE F. SIMPSON CALLED BY DEATH

Was Member of One of City's Oldest Families; Retired Customs Officer

George F. D. Simpson, a native son of Victoria and resident here for sixty-eight years, passed away this morning at his home, 659 Niagara Street, after an illness of a month's duration.

Born in Victoria sixty-eight years ago, the late Mr. Simpson was a representative of one of the oldest families in British Columbia, his grandfather being Sir George Simpson, one of the pioneer governors of the Hudson's Bay Company. As a child he attended the old Craig-Mower School before leaving for England, where he continued his education at Christ College Hinkley, Leicestershire.

For thirty-three years Mr. Simpson was a member of the Customs House staff in this city, retiring two years ago. Prior to joining the service he was for a time in partnership with his brother, Mr. J. Simpson.

In his younger days the late Mr. Simpson was a fine all-round athlete, figuring prominently in all the sporting events of the city, and although his age precluded his active participation in recent years, he never lost his interest in sports and athletics.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. George Simpson, who has been well known for many years as a dancing mistress; four sons and two daughters, George Y. and Jack Y. Simpson, both of the Fairbanks-Morse Company in Victoria and Vancouver respectively; Gordon Y. Simpson, an officer on the C.P.R. steamship Princess Ena; Fred Y. Simpson of San Francisco; Mrs. Hilda Sharp of San Francisco; and Mrs. Hilda Sharp of Victoria.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

ONTARIO EXPECTS RECEBER ELECTION

Report Says Provincial Contest is to Be During First Ten Days of Month

Toronto, Oct. 15.—From news stories published by both Toronto and Montreal, it would seem that the announcement of an Ontario general election date and a declaration of a liquor policy by the Ferguson Government can be expected within the next few days.

The Daily Star says that "Premier Ferguson's long-awaited announcement of his policy on this fall is to be made to-day."

The Telegram says it learned the announcement of the election date will be made to-day, Monday, and that the date probably would be late in November or early in December—probably within the first ten days of the latter month.

LIQUOR CONTROL
Information reaching both newspapers regarding the policy Premier Ferguson will elect to pursue in the liquor control matter.

The Star says it learns Mr. Ferguson will come out for a "local option, government liquor control" policy. This plan would allow communities which wish to remain dry to do so, and those that prefer otherwise to go wet to the extent that liquor would be obtainable in government liquor stores.

MAN KILLED WIFE

Elmira, N.Y., Oct. 15.—When his wife, Lydia, refused to kiss him, George Earl Bromley, twenty-nine, charged with the murder of his wife with a hunting knife. Bromley was held for murder following a confession to the police. The motive for the murder was said to be jealousy.

MAR POY ACQUITTED BY ASSIZE JURY

Three Days' Defamatory Libel Hearing Ends

Described as Scholarly Student of Confucius, Chinaman is Freed

Mar Poy, accused of criminal libel against Nip Sue Gim, was honorably acquitted by the trial jury at the termination of the Assize Court sessions to-day.

At the order of Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald the defendant was discharged from the dock and left the court a free man.

The jury was out one hour and twenty minutes when it returned with the acquittal which came as the climax to a three-day trial.

SCHOLARLY STUDENT
Address by counsel and the judge's charge featured the closing hours of the trial. Frank Higgins, K.C., for the defence, submitted that Mar Poy, a scholarly student of Confucius, had acted in good faith throughout. The letters complained of as libellous were merely rebukes in the Chinese mode of expression, and were meant as admonitions to Nip Sue Gim, his sister-by-agreement.

R. C. Lowe, counsel for the private prosecution, appealed for a conviction on the ground of credibility of witnesses. The offending letters, he submitted, were sufficient to constitute an insult.

JUDGE'S CHARGE
In his charge to the jury Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald gave the law governing the case. Criminal libel might be committed even though the offending statements complained of were true in fact. The intention of the law was to prevent provocation to a breach of the peace.

The defendant was charged with defamatory libel on four counts respecting two letters alleged to have been knowingly false, and alternatively whether the statements contained in the letters were known to be incorrect or not.

His Lordship stressed the difficulty of arriving at an exact interpretation of the Chinese tongue, which so much was left to the reader to supply in rounding out the text. It was for the jury to decide what Mar Poy had meant by his letters, and the case was now in their hands.

CONGRATULATED
The jury returned after fifteen minutes for instructions as to the evidence of a letter received by Mar Poy in reply from the girl, Nip Sue Gim, to the effect that she was finally with a verdict of acquittal. Mar Poy was surrounded by his friends and congratulated on his exoneration.

The Fall Assizes were adjourned sine die, and all those to whom witness or jury fees are payable by the Crown are requested to call at the office of the Court Registrar, in the Courthouse, Bastion Street without delay.

Call Boy First Horse To-Day in Middle Park Race

Newmarket, Eng., Oct. 15 (Canadian Press Cable)—In one of the most thrilling finishes in the history of the famous race, Frank Curzon's Call Boy won the Middle Park Stakes, greatest of single two-year-old races, this afternoon. He beat Lord Derby's Syrele only by a head and Mrs. S. Whitburn's Birthright finished third, a short head away.

Twelve juveniles, the cream of the two-year-old crop, started.

The betting was 7 to 2 against Call Boy, 6 to 1 against Syrele and 10 to 1 against Birthright. The value of the race about $18,000.

Call Boy is a half-brother of the Derby winner, Coronach. Coronach was second in this race last year.

Call Boy was third in his first start and second in his other previous race this season.

500 POLICE ARE DESIEGING BANDITS

Armed Force Believed to Be Closing in on Eight Murderers in New Jersey

Somerville, N.J., Oct. 15.—Orders to cover every foot of the Watchung Mountain territory and shoot to kill were issued to-day to the army of 500 police besieging the supposed hiding place of the bandits who robbed a mail truck in Elizabeth, N.J., yesterday and killed a postal employee and wounded his helper, a policeman and a bystander.

The list of the criminals amounted to about $100,000.

The eight bandits, riding in two powerful automobiles, crashed into the truck and its convoy of one motorcycle policeman at Sixth Street and Elizabeth Avenue, on the edge of the business section of Elizabeth, raked the streets with sub machine guns and s.w.-ed off shotguns, broke into the truck and escaped with five bags of mail. John Emz, driver of the truck, was toppled to the pavement and was fatally wounded in the first round of shots.

The others wounded were: Patrick P. Quinn, Emz's helper; Policeman J. Christman, and Arthur Decatur, a bystander.

ON NARCOTIC CHARGES, BAIL SET AT $10,000

Magistrate in Vancouver Raises Amount Demanded of Five Chinese Arrested in That City and One Man Arrested in Victoria; All Are in Cells in Terminal City

Vancouver, Oct. 15.—After being out on bail of $5,000 each for twelve hours, five of the six men arrested yesterday by Mounted Police and customs officers on charges of conspiring to carry narcotics were given a shock when Magistrate H. C. Shaw here to-day ordered them back into custody and raised the bail to $10,000 each.

Those who were rearrested were Frank Marino, Dominic Marino, Lee Sing, Lim Coy Gim and Wong Chong.

Dominic Crisofi, arrested in Victoria and brought to Vancouver, was unable to secure bondsmen last night and is still held.

Appearing for the prosecution, J. N. Ellis declared the charges against the accused were serious, there being ten informations against each, and he asked for an increase in the amount of bail.

ERRORS IN BONDS
This application was opposed by the defence counsel, but when Magistrate Shaw examined the bond bonds he declared technical errors in them made them worthless. He explained the bonds had been made out by E. M. Bradner, J.P., of the Customs Department, as all other justices in Vancouver were out of the city last night. It was a dangerous thing for an inexperienced man to take a bond, the magistrate declared.

HEARING SET
Despite the continued protest of counsel the magistrate raised the amount of bail to $10,000 each, and the accused men were locked up at once and remanded to October 22 for hearing.

Endeavors are being made by friends to secure bondsmen for them. Mr. Ellis informed the bench that the charges against the accused would reveal the existence of a large narcotics ring working at Victoria and in and around Vancouver.

Norman de Graves, special customs officer, and Sgt. J. Frippe, of the Mounted Police, are assisting Mr. Ellis in the prosecution.

AGES OF ACCUSED
Lim Coy Gim is thirty-nine years of age; Lee Sing is twenty-eight; Dominic Crisofi, thirty-seven; Frank Marino, fifty-four, and Dominic Marino, thirty.

Arrested in Victoria, Crisofi was brought to Vancouver by Mounted Police officers on yesterday afternoon's boat and lodged in the city jail. Dominic Marino was placed under arrest when he stepped from the same boat with him detailed arriving. Frank Marino had been arrested in the late afternoon.

MILK PRICE INQUIRY IN TERMINAL CITY
City Council Asks if Increases Are in Conflict With Federal Combines Act

Vancouver, Oct. 15.—By a vote of three to four, the city council to-day voted in favor of an investigation to determine whether the increase in the price of milk in Vancouver of approximately one cent a quart, effective from yesterday, in contrast with conditions in Seattle, where a "milk war" is in progress, was in violation of the Milk Producers' Association under the Combines Act.

The new prices range from approximately thirteen to sixteen cents a quart, according to grade.

George McCrossan, a corporation counsel, was instructed to commence the investigation immediately and it was said that if alleged combine operations were found to exist, the federal authorities would be asked to take action.

LABOR CANDIDATES IN TERMINAL CITY
Vancouver, Oct. 15.—Behind closed doors members of the Vancouver branch of Canadian Labor Party met in the Trades Council Hall last evening to select their candidates for the forthcoming civic election.

It was announced a committee would submit a platform resolution to the next meeting of the party on October 29.

LITTLE BOY DROWNED
Kimberley, B.C., Oct. 15.—Jan McKenzie, two years old, was drowned yesterday when he fell into a pool of water only two feet across, near which he had been playing.

NEW COAL STRIKE EFFORTS IN BRITAIN
London, Oct. 15.—The executive committee of the Miners' Federation of Great Britain, formed into a council of war, is to carry out a campaign in the Midlands area, where the greatest breakdown from the ranks of the striking coal miners has occurred. The first meeting of the campaign will be held at Basford, near Nottingham.

LABOR WILL STAGE PROTEST FOR QUEEN

Queen Marie's Arrival to Be Occasion of New York Demonstration

New York, Oct. 15.—Preparations were completed to-day by the New York section of the International Labor Defence for an open-air mass meeting on the day that Queen Marie arrives, protesting the "medieval tortures" it alleges are being inflicted on 2,500 political prisoners in Rumania.

A call was issued to the city's workers to meet in Union Square shortly after the hour of the Queen's debarcation Monday, "to express their condemnation of the Rumanian authorities for their brutal treatment of political prisoners."

In many cases, the announcement said, the men and women held in jail "by the government represented by Queen Marie," have no charge against them more serious than the expression of opinion or the refusal of some labor for which is freely circulated in the country.

SHIRLEY W. I. GIVES SHOWER OF PRESERVES TO SOLARIUM CAUSE

Shirley, Oct. 15.—An interesting meeting of the Shirley Women's Institute was held last Saturday afternoon at the Schoolhouse, the Institute having as very welcome guests, Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, superintendent of Women's Institutes; Mrs. J. D. Gordon, Mrs. F. Campbell, and Mrs. Whitman, which added much to the success of the meeting. Mrs. MacLachlan touched on various subjects in her address, as also did Mrs. J. D. Gordon, all having to do with how to make the Institute and its work of the greatest benefit to the women and the homes of the rural districts. Unless it was proving of real service to the community then it was not fulfilling the purpose for which it was organized. The Institutes by endorsing preventive measures and by the establishment of nursing services were doing particularly good work and as a consequence children were being better equipped for their life-work. Mrs. F. Campbell spoke briefly, pointing her address on "Legislation" to a future meeting. The conveners gave their reports, also the committee dealing with the purchase of a book-case for the library. The members each brought their gifts for the jam-shower for the Solarium, a special vote of thanks being passed to Mrs. W. Harris for her particularly generous donation of two dozen quarts. A resolution was passed asking that district conferences be held yearly, and that the Government pay transportation charges only, also that whenever possible the same delegates should not attend for more than two consecutive years.

Another resolution was that this Institute does not consider it fitting that Thanksgiving Day and Armistice Day should be combined in one holiday, the true significance of both being lost, and that November 11 should be kept as a public holiday in honor and memory of those who made the Armistice possible. If it is desirable to have so many holidays in the Fall, Labor Day and Thanksgiving Day could more fittingly be combined as they celebrate a certain day, not commemorate a day.

There was a very good attendance, delicious refreshments being served by the ladies and an enjoyable half-hour was spent before the guests left for Victoria.

Committee Plans Local Campaign For Home Economics

Last evening at the home of Miss Crease an enthusiastic meeting was held of the committee appointed by the Local Council of Women to undertake the campaign work of raising funds for the endowment of a chair of Home Economics in the University of B.C. To the city of Victoria and neighboring districts, through the Local Council, and its affiliated societies, as well as all other women's organizations, it is hoped to awaken public interest to such an extent that the $15,000 allotted to Victoria as her share of the $50,000 endowment, will be collected in a given time without hesitation.

Miss Crease was unanimously voted chairman of the committee with Miss Sara Spencer as treasurer and Miss A. T. Riddell, secretary. The names of Miss McLanigan, Miss Sippell, Miss Isbister, Miss Riddell, Mrs. F. Campbell, and Mrs. MacLachlan were given as speakers, who would in all likelihood willingly address meetings of Women's organizations on the subject of home economics. Mrs. McLaurin was appointed to interview the various societies on the matter. The committee will meet again on Thursday evening, October 21, at 8 o'clock, at the home of Miss Crease.

POLICE PLAN FOR ELABORATE BALL

Empress Hotel Scene of Formal Function on Friday Next

The Victoria Police Department's thirteenth annual ball will be held at the Empress Hotel on Friday evening next, October 22, and plans for the affair are in the capable hands of experienced committeemen, assuring the enjoyment of those who attend. The police plan to make this one of the most elaborate functions which they have ever staged.

They have already gained a high standing reputation as dance hosts. On this occasion they intimate that they will surpass themselves.

Bert Zala's band of "Syncopters" will perform in the ballroom, while Arthur Bishop's talented squad of musicians will play in the library. Both these orchestras have arranged programmes of popular dance music and will play the most modern pieces in the most modern way.

Supper will be served in the dining room and grill of the hotel. Dancing commences at 9 o'clock and dress is strictly formal. As the tickets are in big demand and limited in number, those who intend to attend the ball are advised to purchase early.

Sidney

Sidney, Oct. 15.—The regular weekly card party of the Sidney Social Club was held in Berquist Hall on Wednesday evening.

The area from which the exhibitors are drawn include Vernon, Lynn Creek, Vancouver, Nanaimo, Duncan, Chemainus, Galiano Island, Mayne Island, Esquimalt and Victoria.

The exhibition will be opened to the public on Tuesday afternoon, October 19, at 1:30 o'clock by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor.

Those in charge include: Oil-painting, Mrs. W. L. Loveland; water-colour, Mrs. M. Lettice; crafts, Mrs. W. B. Young; selection committee, Tom Bamford, Trevor Maddon, R.R.A.; catalogue and advertising, J. C. McLaughlin; secretary, Mrs. W. B. Young; treasurer, Mrs. A. E. Hodgins; receiver, Miss J. Crease.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Herker of Thomas Cross Road have gone to California for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Tolson and baby, who have been at Barkley Sound all the summer, have returned to Sidney. Mr. Tolson will be employed at the Roberts Point Cannery.

Mrs. Derrick of Deep Bay has gone to Colwood for a holiday.

Mrs. Hambley and family, who have been in Mrs. Vetch's house for some long time, has moved to her own house on Fourth Street.

Tratfagar Day Carnival Already Assured Success

There is every indication of a good attendance at the Trafalgar carnival at the Crystal Garden next Thursday evening. The Lieutenant-Governor and Miss Mackenzie will arrive sharp at 8 o'clock and will be met by the executive of the Navy League. The water burlesque from 8 to 9 o'clock will be a continuous roar of merriment. Plans for the evening young will enjoy the entertainment.

The living tableau of Lord Nelson will be shown after the burlesque, followed by a grand carnival dance. Two orchestras will provide the latest dance music for the occasion. Favors will be given to every patron, so that the event should be of a real carnival nature.

The Navy League have received word from several organizations in the city that they will be represented at the Trafalgar ceremony at Parliament Square on the morning of October 21, and in some cases wreaths will be placed on the Cenotaph after the hoisting of the signal.

Home Economics Chair—Women's organizations now making out their programmes for their Winter activities are asked to telephone Mrs. D. L. McLaurin, 3187-R, who is in charge of the program, to address their meetings at suitable times on topics in connection with Home Economics. A series of lectures by up-to-date the chair being prepared in conjunction with the educational campaign in the interest of the establishment of a chair on Home Economics in the University of B.C.

Mr. Wilfred Raveron of Raveron Oil Burners Limited is registered at the Empress Hotel, Mr. Raveron is in Victoria regarding appointment of agents for his company and to survey the possibilities of establishing an assembling plant in Victoria.

MANY EXHIBITS FOR ARTS SOCIETY SHOW

271 Paintings and Crafts for Annual Exhibition; Open Tuesday

After three days' busy effort on the part of the committee in charge of the seventeenth annual exhibition of the Island Arts and Crafts Society, everything is fairly well prepared for the opening on Tuesday afternoon next. After cataloguing the work the committee finds that in the water-colour section there are 121 paintings in all, comprising landscape, seascape, portraits, animals, flowers and river scenes.

In the oil-painting section there are fifty-five exhibits, covering many subjects, and including scenes from Honolulu, England, Canada, Venice, Morocco, and flowers, garden scenes, rivers, scenes from the Canadian Rockies, etc.

The crafts are well represented and show a great variety of effort in many different materials, including wool, pottery, glass, wrought steel, copper, repousse, paper staining, pine needlework, leather, and wax. There is a small section devoted to black and white drawings, etchings, pastel and chalk work, with some very effective landscapes, portraits and decorative panels numbering thirty-four subjects.

The total number of paintings and crafts are 271, or twenty more than 1925. The area from which the exhibitors are drawn include Vernon, Lynn Creek, Vancouver, Nanaimo, Duncan, Chemainus, Galiano Island, Mayne Island, Esquimalt and Victoria.

PROPHETS OF EVIL WRONG, DECLARES MORGAN PARTNER

Human Capacity to Mount Economic Obstacles Greater Than Thought, He Says

Quebec, Oct. 15.—The address of Russell C. L. Linnell, of P. Morgan & Company of New York on foreign bonds, featured the session of the fifteenth annual convention of the Investment Bankers' Association of America, held here at the Hotel de Ville, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Linnell's address dealt with the development of foreign securities in the post-war period and examined the cause and effect of the reversal of the previous trend with respect to international investment when Europeans had purchased American securities to a large extent. The war had brought a tremendous displacement of wealth, and the resale of American securities to United States purchasers evidenced the extent of European indebtedness to the United States.

The speaker examined the Dawes plan and the problem of interrelated debts. With regard to the latter he said: "The inter-allied war debts have exercised an immense influence upon men's minds and have sentimentally retarded the return of confidence and reconstruction in Europe. Except in the case of Great Britain they have not exercised any great direct influence upon the simple reason that except by Great Britain the amount of actual remittance on account of war debt has been unimportant."

"I don't think the problems of international finance growing out of the war are to be solved by any comprehensive plan by any great dramatic gesture, or any colossal operation cleaning the slate. They are, I think, being solved day by day, a little here and a little there and are being whittled down to manageable proportions almost without the investment, save in cases where in recent months property in the business district have changed hands

HALT IN PLAN TO RAISE ASSESSMENT IN BUSINESS AREA

at very low figures.

Assessments beyond the actual present value could not be maintained if taken before the courts, asserted Mr. Swinerton, agreeing that many inequalities exist. He expressed sympathy with the Court of Revision in a difficult position, but stressed the need of reductions,
rather than increases in assessments.

R. H. Shanks declared "the meeting considered the time selected for increases to be most inopportune."
Now that our opportunity to appeal on other properties has passed, we notify you of increases. Had we expected raises in the better areas by the Court of Revision we could have poured in a tremendous flood of appeals on poor properties," he said.

"SOAKED, DOUBLE SOAKED"
Alderman Cuthbert Holmes obtained an explanation from Mr. Shanks to the effect that Johnson Street and other areas "are being soaked and now you propose to double soak the better districts." Large property owners had refrained from appeals
on Johnson Street, believing the court to have been doing its best.

PASSED ON TAX CUT
Stephen Jones stated that his presence was the first time he had ever made a protest. The city sent out notices of lowered taxes, and followed this by increases in special cases. "In the meantime he had found it necessary, because of the forecasted lower taxation, to reduce rentals on one property by $250.

"Let the assessment stand as it is. Equalization is too far-reaching a subject to be gone into in haste.
A general revaluation, by a representative committee, in the near future, would be the better plan" Mr.
Jones concluded.

ASKS POSTPONEMENT

J. Keith Wilson protested that the proposed increases were making fish of one and flesh of another. He asked the Court of Revision to pay regard to the many vacant stores,
and declared that many merchants
were badly in arrears with rentals.
While times were not good in Victoria, prospects ahead were much better, and he would ask them to postpone this series of increases.

David Leeming stated that glaring inequalities existed in assessment of properties. He considered this condition a serious handicap to civic progress. "In my experience the Court of Revision will not listen to protests that property for sale at $2000 is assessed at $5,000, but they must pay attention to charges of inequity," he stated.

Alderman Woodward considered that Mr. Leeming had asked for increases on properties, and met with a warm denial. "I never would ask for an increase on any man's taxes
what I asked for was equalization.
I was a member of the Court of Revision who suggested increases should be made," Mr. Leeming protested.

UPS AND DOWNS

Chairman Marchant admitted recessions in values in Johnson Street and waterfront properties, and stated the Court to be favorable to reductions on these lands. "But while this has been going on, has there not also at the same time, been a very considerable appreciation in value in some other districts?" he asked.

MERIT CONSIDERATION
Alderman Marchant admitted that property owners now basking in the sunshine of prosperity may have serious claims to consideration in view of the burdens they carried during the war years. He stated that no decision would be made at this time, and further notices would be sent out, there being a technical flaw in the first series.

A. D. Macfarlane expressed pleased surprise at the announcement of Chairman Marchant that assessments may be lessened in some districts, declaring no previous intimation of this proposal had been given.
Alderman Woodward considered
the Court should meet and decide whether it would go through with this plan. He opposed a policy of drift. Mr. Swinerton had suggested leaving all changes over until next year.

istry, which had been in power in mands of the civil service employees for increases in salaries. Former Chancellor Seipel probably will form

NATION'S WELFARE IN FUTURE LIES IN HEALTH OF YOUTH

ready to lay down its work as the Canadian Army. But a duty had been given to it and it must act
as an unofficial helpmate to government efforts to improve national health. The nation did need such efforts, the speaker asserted. He would not try to prove this, but made the assertion boldly.

Government, said Col. Biggars, was an institution which did as the people wished. If the people wanted something the Government would give it to them. The Red Cross merely encouraged this desire among the people.

The Canadian Red Cross Society
had another quality, he went on.
Canada was a unique geographical country—a little ribbon of people stretched across a vast domain. It was hard for them to think nationally. But when its people co-operated as they did when Canadian soldiers captured Vimy Ridge, they could accomplish anything. The Red Cross Society wanted to stress Canada's nationality.

NATIONAL BODIES

"We need national bodies in Canada," said Col. Biggars. "The Canadian Red Cross Society is the largest service organization in Canada,
and, I think has the best progress.
Anyone can become a member. And everybody should become a member."

NINE MILLION WORKERS

The children of Canada had a great responsibility and they were the coming nation. But the children of Canada's schools, said the speaker,
were undernourished, and the propo-tion was approximately one-third of the child population. Wholesome food, not the rich, pampered stuff of modern life, was the most healthful thing for children. The Canadian Red Cross Society was working among these children to build them up and give them proper childhood habits. This was largely the work of Junior Red Cross. This, and other duties, including the sympathytizing of crippled children, was the growing Junior Red Cross, which now boasted 120,000 members. Internationally there were 9,000,000 of these child workers.

STRONG INFLUENCE

Through international undertaking children learned a real international friendliness for one another. There might be in the Junior Red Cross idea something more likely to bring about international understanding and unity than any other force. He himself felt that this was one of the strongest forces leading towards world peace which humanity had ever known.

DR. ROBERTSON

Dr. Robertson designated himself
"chore boy for Canada." He pictured events which had occurred during the development of the Red Cross movement.

The problem of preservation of peace was before the nations of the world after the war. Article 26 of the Covenant of the League of Nations, which contained the nations'
pledge to work together in an international effort to bring better health and a mitigation of suffering, was passed by the League without one dissenting voice, he said, while he looked on.

SERIOUS CONDITION

Out of 1,000 children examined in Montreal, 30 per cent. were found undernourished. At the time when nourishment for the growing body
was most essential, these children,
more than half of them, 80 per cent.,
in fact, were suffering from defective
teeth and gums, which seriously threatened good health. There were 33 per cent. of these children who drank tea and coffee and Dr. Robertson said. They were indulged too much and their ignorance was their undoing.

The story of the boyhood of Canada was the story of the Marquis wheat, which had been the staple of the great food commodity this
year.

Experimenters had worked with wheat and watched to see how it would take care of itself. Out of several acres of land left in wheat to grow unwatched, only two heads
were left after three years of neglect.
And so it was with the youth of Canada, said Dr. Robertson. It was the work of Canadian people to cultivate the children of Canada as the farmer did his wheat; for mothers to guard their babies and help to make the nation and Empire great.

Col. Wilby thanked the speakers for the strong appeal which had been voiced, and he hoped the good that they had planted here would properly germinate, he said.

RELICS OF FRANKLIN EXPEDITION FOUND

Skull of Man, Cloth, Leather and Piece of Oak Picked Up in Canadian Arctic

Edmonton, Oct. 15.—Further relics of the ill-fated Franklin Expedition
have come to light. A skull, fragments of navy cloth, a piece of shoe leather and a piece of oak from an ice sled was picked up about a year ago by Peter Norberg, a trader at Thunder Cove, Adelaide Peninsula,
ten miles across the Simpson Strait from King William Land, off the northern point of which the ships
Erebus and Terror were abandoned.
J. E. Moran, inspector for the Northwest Territories and Yukon branch of the Canadian Government, has just brought back these latest Franklin relics for there is little reason to question that such they are—on his return from Akavik, in the Mackenzie Delta, to Edmonton.

INDICATIONS OF SCURVY
Medical men and anthropologists have examined the skull and pronounced it to have been that of a white man. All the teeth save one molar are absent from the skull and the jawbone is pitted as though rotted with scurvy.

The navy cloth is faded and stained from contact with sea water
and from long exposure to the elements, but it is cloth of the type used for generations in the making of the uniforms of British seamen.
The piece of oak is apparently part of a rib from a snowed, shaped and cut off at one end with a saw.
The strip of leather evidently was part of a white man's shoe.

ON LINE OF TRAVEL

Finally, the location of the relics themselves lends color to the theory that these are relics of that tragic battle against hunger, cold and exhaustion, which ended in the deaths
on the inhospitable rocks of King William Land or on the ice of Simpson Strait as the last survivors dropped the frozen traces from their bloodless hands and laid themselves
down to await the mercy of Death.

Thunder Cove, on Adelaide Peninsula, is situated in the direct line the men would take as they followed the west coast of King William Land southward to Simpson Strait and headed south and east toward the entrance of the Great Fish River.

The relics are being taken by Mr.
Moran to Ottawa, where, after examination, it is probable, they will be deposited in the museum.

OXFORD CONTINUES IN PUBLIC ARENA

London, Oct. 15.—In a letter to the Liberal Party the Earl of Oxford and Asquith yesterday announced his resignation as leader. He indirectly attributed his action, which he described as irrevocable, to the dissension which had arisen between himself and David Lloyd George. He declared he was firmly convinced of the correctness of his own attitude toward the general strike, but that he could not and would not take part in an internal political controversy. He referred to Mr. Lloyd George's refusal to meet in council with the Liberal leaders in order to formulate
a policy during the general strike, and declared party unity could not effectively be maintained under a system of rival authorities with separate organizations and separate funds. The reference was to Mr.
Lloyd George's leadership of the parliamentary Liberal Party, which had stood by the war Premier in his controversy with other leaders of the party.

HEALTH QUESTION

Lord Oxford referred to the fact that he had been in ill health for some time past.
"Though my health is now restored," he wrote, "I feel the anxieties
and responsibilities of leadership ought not to be undertaken or continued by anyone who cannot be reasonably certain he can stand the strain."

Lord Oxford, who was raised to the peerage only last year for his distinguished services to Great Britain, does not contemplate retirement from public life. He hopes he may still be of service to the state and to Liberalism.

The withdrawal of Lord Oxford as Liberal leader constitutes the last chapter in the dramatic political controversy which has been going on between him and Mr. Lloyd George since December, 1916, when Lord Oxford, then plain Mr. Asquith, was forced out of the Premiership to be succeeded by Mr. Lloyd George.

LIQUOR CONTROL IS DECLARED SUCCESS

Washington, Oct. 15.—A series of replies to the recent statement by the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal Church of the United States, saying government liquor control in Quebec was a failure, was made public last night by the association against the Prohibition Amendment.

Dr. Stephen Leacock of McGill University, Canadian author, asserted that "it is utterly and absolutely untrue as far as concerns the province of Quebec in which I live. The system of government regulation and sale of liquor in force here is an obvious and complete success."

B. E. Randall of Toronto, secretary of the Moderation League of Ontario,
said government control in Quebec,
Alberta, British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and the Yukon Territory "has been an unqualified success," and Ralph M. O'Neill, secretary of the Moderation League of Nova Scotia, where prohibition law is in effect, asserted enforcement in that province "is a farce."

Canadians Are Not Over-Educated, Says Falconer

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Sir Robert Falconer, president of the University of Toronto, in an address delivered before the Commerce Club of the university, referred to statements that too many Canadians were over-educated and that too great a percentage of younger generations were seeking "white-collar" jobs as a means of livelihood. "Sir Robert declared he did not think there was any truth in the contention people might be over-educated as long as the standard was kept high enough. There was a danger in "half-education" though, he said.

"If we in Canada are to hold our own with the rest of the world, it will be in the way in which we are guided by expert advice," he said.
"If we have highly trained people,
the well trained mind will make a way for itself."

TWO BATTLES IN YANGTSE REGION

Northern and Southern Chinese Forces Fighting For Supremacy There

Shanghai, Oct. 15.—A Toho Agency dispatch from Kiukiang says an extensive battle between Northern Chinese troops and "Red" Cantonese forces is in progress in the region of Nanchang, to the south of Kiukiang, in Kiangsi province. It also says another battle is being fought around Tienchiachen, on the Yangtze River.
An unconfirmed report in Shanghai shipping circles says a French sailor was killed and one wounded when Chinese troops fired on the French gunboat Alerte near Kiukiang recently.

MISSIONARIES RELEASED
Peking, Oct. 15.—Three United States missionaries captured by bandits at Millwan with western part of Honan province, at the end of September were released Monday after having been detained eighteen days.

No ransom was paid for their release.
The missionaries released were Miss Minerva Neil and Karl M. Beck

THE EARL OF OXFORD RESIGNS

AFTER EIGHTEEN YEARS AS ITS PREsiding officer the Earl of Oxford and Asquith has resigned the leadership of the Liberal Party of Great Britain at the age of seventy-four. His resignation comes on the eve of a national convention of Liberals at which the fortunes of the Party are to be examined and future policies decided upon. It was not unexpected. The aged Earl has only just recovered from a serious illness, while the relations between himself and Mr. Lloyd George, patched up several times, but with little sincerity in the reconciliation, are still strained and would be likely to remain
so as long as neither could command the allegiance
of the Party as a whole.

One of the principal hindrances to the cause of Liberalism in Great Britain since the end of the Coalition Government in 1922 has been its division into two camps. The Earl of Oxford, officially the Party's leader, has captained one faction, and Mr.
Lloyd George has led the other. This condition has revealed a lack of unity against Conservatism. In the election of 1924 many Liberals, partly irritated by the continual friction within their own ranks and partly through the scare which the famous Zinovieff letter produced, cast their votes for Tory candidates.
Another split occurred between the Earl of Oxford and Mr. Lloyd George at the time of the general strike a few months ago. Some sort of reconciliation followed; but not until a good deal of the Party's dirty linen had been aired in public. The tone of the leader's letter of resignation, however, indicates that harmony between the two is not possible.

The Earl of Oxford and Asquith has rendered distinguished service to British Liberalism; but his acceptance of a title did not add to his own or the Party's strength. Mr. Gladstone, it will be recalled, refused all honors because he could not reconcile his position as leader of the most democratic of parties with his occupancy a seat in the Lords. This might not have been an insuperable difficulty in the Earl of Oxford's case, however, if the party had not been divided in its allegiance to himself and Mr.
Lloyd George. On the other hand, while retaining the confidence of many Liberals of unwavering loyalty to genuine Liberal policies, recent political history has revealed the Earl of Oxford in a wavering mood in respect of matters which his judgment a few years ago would have guided him to different action. A similar indictment may be returned against Mr. Lloyd George; but the latter has not been able to forget his early political training and the ideals of the Party to which he belongs. He is still a Liberal in the full sense of the term. Much of his uncertainty on occasions, moreover, was produced by the extraordinary power which he enjoyed from 1916 until 1922. It took him some time to accustom himself to a lesser political station and his occasional flirtation with Conservative policies was symptomatic of a natural disinclination to adapt himself to the new conditions. For he is but human.

The Earl of Oxford can look back upon a distinguished career within the ranks of his Party and in the service of the State. He entered the House of Commons forty years ago as the member for East Fife. One of his most prominent early appearances as a lawyer was when he defended John Burns—who was afterwards a Cabinet colleague—for his part in the so-called riots of Trafalgar Square in 1887. Two years later he was one of the counsel for the Irish Nationalists before the Parnell Commission. It was he who drew up the bill for the disestablishment of the Church in Wales and he supported it until the House of Commons rejected it.
His star in the political firmament increased in brightness after the defeat of the Liberal Government in 1895, and when the late Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman brought his party through to a sweeping victory in 1905, Mr. Asquith, as he then was, was given the portfolio of Chancellor of the Exchequer, to follow as Prime Minister after the death of his leader in 1908. He guided the destinies of the nation until 1916 when he and Mr. Lloyd George reached the parting of the ways and the Welshman took the reins of office. That was the beginning of the temporary disruption of the Liberal Party. It can only be temporary because Great Britain is intensely Liberal at heart.

The Earl of Oxford will always be remembered,
of course, as the Prime Minister who led a Government in revolt against the veto of the House of Lords. It was the measure of his Administration—
the Parliament Act—which became the law of the land after the Upper Chamber had thrown out the budget which Mr. Lloyd George presented to the Commons in 1909. The people approved the course taken by the Liberals, which deprived the House of Lords of its veto, by sending the Asquith Government back when it appealed to them on this issue in 1910. As he watches the fortunes of the Party to which he has belonged through all his political life,

therefore, the Earl of Oxford will have little with which to reproach himself.

OUR NEW FARMERS

ONE OF THE MOST ENCOURAGING
phases of the movement of new peoples to this country is the number of farmers with stock and funds who are coming to settle in the Dominion. The Toronto Globe notes this with considerable satisfaction and says that during last month two hundred and seventy-two families left one district in North Dakota for the Dominion, and this is but an indication of the substantial exodus. They are bringing with them their goods and their money. They are becoming citizens of Canada. This movement has resulted from knowledge obtained of the superiority of our soil and the brighter prospects for prospering offered here. The movement will grow. Hereafter, in the East, as in the West, the enterprising people of the continent will look to Canada as their field of opportunity.

This indicates the beginning of a new era in Canadian agricultural development. It also is a striking commentary upon the lot of American farmers under a system of high protection which they, to their sorrow, have discovered has reacted very seriously on their fortunes. No doubt the plight of the agriculturist, openly laid to the tariff by those who at one time advocated it as a means to new prosperity, is more serious than was recently disclosed when the two measures intended for his relief were scrapped
by Secretary Mellon because their effect would be increased prices to the consumer of the farmer's products.

"BUSINESS FOR ALL"

THE OTHER DAY AL CAPONE,
reputed to be the king of the Cicero underworld
of Chicago, said he wanted to see an end of gang murder "because there is enough business for all of us without killing each other like animals in the streets."
He went on to say that "I don't want to die in the street punctured by machine gun fire." Nobody does, and the diaphragm of a Chicago gunman is just as sensitive when used as a receptacle for bullets as that of the most law-abiding person.

Chicago and its rival thug factions have become a national menace in the republic. In several public references to organized lawlessness in that city, President Coolidge has shown grave concern. But nothing the representatives of law and order seem to do has much effect. It was bad enough when only revolvers, knives and bombs were the weapons of the gangster;
but now the machine gun has been pressed into the service of the underworld as part of the equipment of criminal activities the situation seems almost out of hand. As one American commentator points out, at one time the public used to stand aghast at the ways of Chinese gangs; now the Chinese must feel that they are completely outdone by the gangsters of the big metropolitan centres.

Father Cares for Children

By AUSTIN H. CLARK

Father always takes entire care
of the children in the sea-horses.
In the true sea-
horses the eggs
are placed in a sack on the under side of the tail of the male in which they are hatched.
In other sea-
horses the eggs
are embedded in the soft and thickened skin of the under side
either of the body
or of the tail.
Few fishes are more curious and interesting than
the sea-horses.
They are found abundantly in suitable localities
in all warm seas, and often reach as far northward as southern Massachusetts, though they are not common beyond New York.

They are common in the Mediterranean, which accounts for the frequent references to them by the Greeks and Romans.
There are about fifty kinds of sea-horses, most of which are rather small, from two inches to about a foot in length; but in the eastern Pacific from China to Australia there are some nearly two feet long. These, however, resemble pipe-fishes rather than sea-horses.

Some sea-horses are more or less ornamented with skinny flaps and filaments which in some Australian kinds are so developed that they look more like bunches of sea-weeds than like fishes.
Sea-horses are very feeble swimmers. They progress very slowly in a more or less upright position by rapidly undulating the little fin upon their back. But most of the time they remain attached to sea-weeds or to corals or other growths by the coiled tail.

A THOUGHT

A merry heart doeth good like a medicine, but a broken spirit drieth the bones.—Prov. xvii, 22.

experience to make me sad.—Shakespeare.

"HOITY-TOITY"

When you throw up your hands in astonishment at some unwarranted display of temper in another you unconsciously exclaim "hoity-toity." Perhaps you have made a well-intentioned remark and your listener takes offense for no reason.
and goes off "in a huff." "Hoity-toity" is the phrase which means your surprise and amazement. It is said that there is an old English verb, "hoity," which means "to be riotous." To be "hoity" and therefore irresponsible. "Hoity-toity" is merely an imitative duplication of this obscure word.

ALBERTA'S PROGRESS

Q.—What progress has been made by Alberta since its incorporation twenty-five years ago, the province of Alberta has increased its population
from 200,000 to 440,000; its wheat area from 220,000 acres to 11,000,000

THE FLYING LINE STAGE

To the Editor:—For some years past I have been motoring over the East Saanich Road to and from Victoria in all sorts of weather and have not infrequently made six to seven trips during the week. I can conscientiously say that the young men who are operating the Flying Line busses are exceedingly careful and most efficient in the handling of their cars. At no time have I noticed any attempt on their part to "hog" the road; in fact, in this respect it is quite the reverse, for I have personally seen them give way to beaten track and give some wild person the whole of the road.
There is another point that is worth mentioning. A Flying Line Deep Cove bus will never pass a car on the road that is in trouble. To my knowledge both lines have been,
and are to-day, carrying passengers
free who have through accident, become incapacitated and unable to work.

It is only very rarely that I write to the newspapers, but these are occasions when one cannot sit back and remain silent, especially in the present instance when, knowing as I do from personal observation that the boys driving the Flying Line cars have been unfairly criticized. If all stage lines are as cautiously operated as the Flying Line and the Stacey-motorists journeying from Victoria to Sidney and Deep Cove need not feel the least bit alarmed or fear any danger of coming into contact with the busses operated by either of these companies.

WEST COAST ROADS

To the Editor:—We taxpayers and residents of the southern end of Vancouver Island need a lot more money expended on roads and highways. At the same time we know that it would be almost useless to ask the Legislature to get it from the already overburdened taxpayer. But why not get a few million dollars from the Provincial lands and timber on the southwest coast without taking a dollar from the taxpayers' pockets
now or any future time?

The Provincial land commences about ten miles west of Sooke and extends along the coast to Barkley Sound, a distance of about seventy miles. The tract would average about twenty miles wide, making approximately 1,400 square miles or sections.
Estimating 25,000 feet per acre, or 16,000,000 feet per section, the stump-age paid to the Government at present price would be $16,000,000 per section and $22,400,000 for the whole tract.

By providing shipping facilities
near the centre of the timber area (which would mean a breakwater at Port Juan) the value of the timber would be raised from the present
price of $1 a thousand to $4 or $5,
and leave nearly $100,000,000 to expend on roads or to reduce taxes.
The manufactured lumber, pulp,
paper, etc., valued at $20 per thousand, would put into circulation about $672,000,000, most of it paid out in wages and stumpage dues to the Province and leaseholders.
The proposed breakwater at the entrance of Port Juan would be a Federal work and be built free of cost to the Province. Probably Premier Oliver would like an invitation to go after that $100,000,000 with an excellent chance of the success which would earn for him the thanks of this community, the Province and the nation for ever.

The mills and factories located on that great forest area would employ about 14,000 men for forty years, and pay each man $1,000 a year in wages and leave $112,000,000 to pay the Province and leaseholder for stump-age and other purposes. Will someone who knows please tell us how much Spanish and Covarian farm
and other products would be needed to supply the every day needs of those thousands of people for forty years? How much Nanaimo coal, Bamberton cement and James Island explosives would be needed? How much flour, bacon, etc., from the prairies and iron and steel and other manufacture products from Eastern Canada? How many thousands of C.P.R. and C.N.R. transcontinental train loads would it take to convey the goods to the factories and people on the West Coast?

We residents of the south end of Vancouver Island have been and are now exceedingly negligent in making good use of the great natural resources which nature has so generously placed in our keeping.
No other community in Canada
would allow all that natural wealth to lie there dormant when so little trouble and expense is needed to turn it into cash. We know that the best utilization of the natural resources is our country's most vital need, but we leave it to a away-back-in-the-woods man to suggest a practical method to make use of it in this locality.

The approximate facts and figures
which I have given are authentic.
They are not exaggerated and can be verified to the fullest extent so far as information can be obtained.

It is a certainty that the Province can get a big annual income from the sale of that West Coast land and timber, at the same time making it possible for many thousands of people to make their homes on the southern end of Vancouver Island. For the sake of those who are leaving the country to get employment elsewhere
let us do what is necessary to provide employment for them in the most evergreen spot in Canada.

LIEUT. COL. MOODY R.E. AND SAPPER SERGEANT

THE year 1858 marked the arrival in Victoria of Lieut. Colonel Moody and a detachment of Royal Engineers—better known to British Columbians as "Sappers." This event was of much moment, for the work of the men of this practical arm of the service did much to open up the country and make settlement possible. Whilst there are still many evidences of their effective labors, their outstanding achievement was the building of part of the Cariboo Road.

There are "Sappers" in every modern industry—men quietly working to develop new ways and means of better service. Such an organization is Shelly's, striving daily to relieve more housewives of the burden of baking.

MILK AND HONEY. From time immemorial the expression, "Land flowing with milk and honey," has been accepted as a fitting description of an ideal land. Honey has always been significant of the most pleasing and wholesome foods, and it is the free use of pure honey in Shelly's Macaroons which gives them that delicious, palatable flavor which makes them so popular as a lunch-time confection or for parties and picnics. COURTS ARE TO RULE ON GIRLS' CLOTHES

Knickers and Short Skirts Cause Disputes in Middle U.S. Schools

Chicago, Oct. 15.—The question of what schoolgirls may or may not wear at classes, involving knickers, bloomers, and short skirts, has caused so much controversy in three mid-western towns that the courts have been called upon to pinch-hit for Dame Fashion.

In Port Fulton, Indiana, Virginia Allen has been going to school twice a day for the last three weeks and each time has been barred from classes because of her knickers, which her mother said were employed temporarily until she could afford other clothing for her nine-year-old daughter. Finally, the mother filed suit for a mandamus, requiring the school authorities to allow her child to attend school.

FORBIDDEN BY CHURCH
An almost directly opposite case comes from Grand Island, Nebraska, where the daughter of Rev. F. J. Smith has obtained a ruling from the state Attorney-General that she is not compelled to wear bloomers in the gym. The preacher held such apparel was against the religious beliefs of the Nazarene Church.

MUST COVER KNEES
Legal action also appears imminent in Genoa, Nebraska, where the school board ruled that all girls from the sixth grade up must wear skirts long enough to cover their knees, after high school girls had complained the room was chilly. Hazel O'Bryan, sixteen, broke the rule and, supported by her relatives, is awaiting the next move of the school rulers.

Explaining the decision was "on the side of common decency," W. V. Kenner, banker and president of the board, said it had not been "found that the girls who complained of lack of heat were those who were wearing short skirts and sleeveless dresses."

CANADA RECEIVES MENNONITE SETTLERS

Winnipeg, Oct. 15.—Before the end of this year, between 6,000 and 7,000 new Mennonite settlers will have arrived in Canada. So far 3,500 have come and about as many more are on the way. Bishop E. M. Toews, president of the Mennonite Colonization Board, made this statement last night as he was passing through this city on his way home to Rosthern, Sask., from Montreal.

The people are from Southern Russia.

School for Young Movie Actors Proves Its Worth

Hollywood, Oct. 15.—Youth had its fling on the screen and proved so well that it could act that another picture, after the style of "Fascinating Youth," soon will be in the making in Hollywood.

The clan of Paramount Junior Stars is gathering again—Thelma Todd, Marion Ivy Harris, Robert Andrews, Greg Blackton, Iris Gray, Jeanne Morgan, Mona Palma, Charles Rogers, Claude Buchanan, Walter Goss, Jack Ludden, Thelma Kenven, Charles Brokaw, Josephine Dunn, Dorothy Nourse, Irving Hartley—for the continuation of an experiment that Jesse L. Lasky tried and which made him a little richer.

The matter of finding new talent for the screen had so long been a thorn in the sides of the directors that Lasky last year tried out the somewhat expensive establishment of a school for young actors, resulting in the first picture of its kind ever made, "Fascinating Youth."

It "took." The folk from Squelunk liked it. So did the critics.

And the school proved a success. The sixteen graduates showed such talent that all were signed to long-term contracts by Paramount.

Production on the second all-young picture will begin about January 1 and is to be directed by Hector Turnbull. The story will be another portrayal of joyous juvenescence.

TEACHERS OF FIRST CHURCH AT BANQUET

Reports Before Annual Gathering Tell of Activity

A large gathering of the teachers and officers of the First United Church Sunday School met for their annual teachers' banquet on Thursday night. Supper was served at 6:30. A varied programme was given. Rev. J. C. Goodfellow was in the chair.

Optimistic reports, fraternal, and good work done, all these notes were sounded in the brief addresses that were given by James Logie, W. Knott, Thos. Smith, Fred L. McPherson, and Rev. Dr. Wilson.

Mr. Knott, superintendent of the Metropolitan Church School, brought the greetings of that sister organization to the teachers of First Church.

James Logie, who with Neil Grant took charge of the junior department at the beginning of September, gave an encouraging report of the work done among the juniors. The attendance was again at par after the disintegrating processes of the summer's holiday, and the prospects for the winter's work, for teachers and scholars, are very bright.

The report of the twenty-sixth annual Sunday School convention was brought in by Thomas Smith. The convention was held in First Baptist Church, Vancouver. Mr. Smith said that there were few delegates from the island at the conference, but those few had done good work for Victoria in seeking to persuade the convention to meet in this city next year. There is every prospect that the twenty-seventh annual Sunday School convention will be held in Victoria in the year 1927. Mr. Smith's report of the convention was well received. He was one of the three delegates who went from First Church school.

Fred L. McPherson, Bible examiner for the school, gave an interesting and amusing address, not omitting the good Scotch story. The work of Bible examiner was a laborious one, but full of interest. It was a labor of love. Mr. McPherson paid a fitting tribute to the ministrations of the church, and the part they played in caring for the religious instruction of the young people.

S.S. BANQUET
Rev. Dr. Wilson spoke at length on the various phases of the work. He said that it was an inspiration to any minister to see such a body of Sunday School teachers and officers. The Sunday School workers were second to none among church officials. He looked for great results from this coming winter's work.

During the evening a solo by Miss Black was much appreciated. Misses May Warnock and Gladys Lea enlivened the evening with mandolin duets, and Stanley Wakeman gave a violin solo. J. I. Smith accompanied at the piano.

A hearty vote of thanks was proposed by Thos. Smith to the church elders' wives, who had provided, prepared and served the supper. The tables had been tastefully decorated, as well as heavily laden with good things. Also to the artists of the evening, who had so well added the necessary spice to the evening's programme.

The meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem.

AUCTION BRIDGE EXPERT COMING

Mr. R. F. Foster, who is generally known as the modern Hoyle and the father of auction bridge, is to be in Victoria on the afternoon of Monday, October 25, when he will give a demonstrated lecture in the restaurant of Hudson's Bay Company's store.

Mr. Foster is a native of Scotland, coming first to Canada in 1872, but has crossed the Atlantic Ocean nearly 100 times since then, and although a resident of the United States, is still a British subject.

It is about forty years since his attention was first called to the importance of card games as an aid to social intercourse, and he has devoted many years to their study and analysis, being able to play no less than eighty-nine different games. While in England in 1905 he was particularly impressed by the possibilities of adding the bidding element to the old game of bridge for four players.

AUCTION NOW POPULAR
In 1906 he brought that game to America, writing articles about it in The New York Sun, of which he was card editor for twenty-five years, under Dana, and giving talks about it at various card clubs in the States, but it took two years to make any impression on the bridge players who thought the older game was good enough. Once it took hold, however, auction soon replaced bridge as completely as bridge had supplanted whist.

Mr. Foster has no theories about auction bridge tactics. He has on file 10,000 recorded distributions of the fifty-two card pack, and whenever anything new is suggested in the way of bidding or play he takes advantage from 200 to 1,000 of these deals at random and uses them as a sort of testing machine, to see how the new idea works out in practice. All the old ideas have been subjected to the same test, to arrive at the average results on large numbers of hands.

FEW SIMPLE RULES.
The result of this careful analysis has been to bring the same down to

In his lectures he teaches nothing but what he can prove by statistics to be sound winning bridge. This he offers as the foundation upon which to build a person's game. After that is mastered, he says, one can turn one's attention to poker bridge, to judgment of adversaries and partners, and all those things that begin where the textbook leaves off.

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Lillian Thomas, who slapped D. E. Melver, an assistant master in a local school, last Friday, apologized for her act in women's court yesterday and was remanded for sentence in the sum of $200 to keep the peace and stay out of the school grounds for two years. Mrs. Thomas's son was strapped by the teacher for disobedience. Mrs. Thomas claimed the boy was not physically fit to stand the strapping.

Bank Robbery Trial in Toronto

Toronto, Oct. 15.—Gordon Simpson, now serving a term in the Kingston penitentiary, will again face trial at the criminal assizes, which are to open here October 18, on the charge that while armed he held up and robbed the branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia at Oakwood Avenue and St. Claire Avenue West, Toronto, on September 27, 1923, and stole $3,007, along with Norman (Red) Ryan and others unknown.

Simpson was tried last Spring and the jurors disagreed, and he was taken back in the penitentiary. Now counsel for Simpson has been notified.

RETURN TO IRELAND

Hamilton, Oct. 15.—The family of Michael O'Leary, first Canadian to win the Victoria Cross in the Great War, has left here for Montreal, en route to Belfast, Ireland. The family, in straightened circumstances and will remain in Ireland while the V.C. winner remains in Canada in search of employment.

HIS MOVIES RIGHT MAR POY DECLARES

Interpreters Battle Over Exact Shade of Meaning of Offending Words

Chinese Written Language Capable of Many Constructions

Two hours on the witness stand in his own defence and under cross-examination yesterday Mar Poy, accused of writing defamatory letters to Nip Sue Gim, explained his conduct as that of a high-minded man who sought only to improve the moral tone of a wayward girl by means of the Confucian relationship of elder brother by contract.

He had not threatened the life of Nip Sue Gim, asserted Mar Poy, nor had there been ought in his letters other than reproof for the wilfulness of his sister-by-agreement. Nip Sue Gim, as he had it, was not even annoyed by the letters but had welcomed them as coming from his hands.

HIGH MINDED
Taxed with conviction in the lower court for the offense of being in possession of a revolver, Mar Poy, explained that this was a gun he had taken from a brother of the girl, one Gim, when the latter had stood facing six men who were struggling with him over some dispute. His action had been high-minded; but the court below had believed otherwise and had imposed a fine of $27.50 in all, which sum Mar Poy had not yet recovered from the spirited brother of Nip Sue Gim, he said.

Asked by R. C. Lowe, counsel for the prosecution, why he had not driven Nip Sue Gim straight home when she had run away and was in his car, witness replied that the girl had seized the wheel and threatened to end her life if he did so.

Then began a battle of interpreters in which the correct translation of the two main letters in the case was disputed from every angle. During the process the court learned many definitions. "An obsolete parent," the jury was told, was one who was not what he should be. "Once I see you I will rip your skin," or as it was variously translated, "Once I see you I will scratch your face," because "When I see you I will tear the skin of the story, and get the truth." The phrase had not proposed bodily harm the court was told.

WRITS IN CHINESE
There was no insult in the letters when these were viewed from the Chinese method of thought, witness stated. To explain this one witness, Charlie Chee, a graduate of the University of Chicago and a Victoria trained Chinese interpreter just recently returned from special translations at McGill, Montreal, explained that many English words would sound badly in the Chinese tongue. Witness instanced this by quotations from Robert Burns and Walter Scott. "The man," he said, had a very coarse meaning.

The special passages chosen by the witness for translation from English classics did not have a very refined meaning even in the English tongue, commented Mr. Justice McDonald in passing.

Harry Hastings, who interpreted the evidence throughout the trial, took the stand for the defence to show that the Chinese language could be written in two ways, to be read by sound or by sight.

The eight language was the old classical form of the tongue, and some of its characters were used also in the language which was meant to be spoken, only with different meanings. Moo San and its surrounding meanings was such a phrase, and in the common tongue had a meaning far removed from the pure definition given to the legend in the classical sign language of monarchial China.

Viewed impartially from a neutral standpoint, said witness, the letters were those of admonition, couched in ordinary terms of censorship and reproof.

Closing witnesses for the defence yesterday were Lee Chee, 18, and Harvey Chow, 19 and married, both of whom made confessions involving others in words that were identical save for the different settings in each case.

Lee Chee lost some weight when it was shown he had at one stage of his career attempted to bribe a police officer with a $5 bill when arrested for speeding. The bribery charge had been dropped against him, and he had been fined for speeding. Lee Chee, who despite his confession did not have the appearance of a very desperate man, stood at 6 p.m. the court rose until 9.30 a.m. to-day, when the case will be concluded and go to the jury. Frank Higgins, K.C., appears for the defence and R. C. Lowe for the private prosecution.

FEDERAL AID FOR SHIPMENT OF COAL

Ottawa Prepared to Subsidize Alberta Fuel for Ontario

Toronto, Oct. 15.—An Ottawa staff special dispatch to The Toronto Globe says:

"The Federal Government is prepared to subsidize to the extent of $2 a ton the shipment of another 4,000 tons of Alberta coal to Ontario. Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Mines, is in Toronto to-day with reference to the Federal Government's proposal, which would make Alberta coal available to Ontario consumers at $11 a ton, plus $2.50, the local dealer's charge for distribution. The cost of the coal at the mines is roughly $4 a ton, and the freight rate to Ontario points is $9 a ton, $2 of which the Federal Government is prepared to pay.

The cost of distribution in Ontario villages is $2.50 a ton, which includes cartage and dealer's profits, so the cost of a ton of Alberta coal delivered in the Ontario consumers' cellar is $19 a ton, $2 of which the Federal Government is prepared to pay.

Glasses That Lend Distinction

The old fashioned idea that glasses are a mark of weakness has been dispelled by the clever workmanship and the careful fitting of our opticians. By fitting the type of glasses that best harmonize with the appearance and personality of the patron we have been successful in creating an air of individuality in making our glasses add to the charm of the wearer.

SOCIAL PERSONAL WOMEN'S AFFAIRS CLUB AND NEWS

CLUB WOMEN WOULD ENTERTAIN QUEEN

Vancouver Social Circles Getting Ready for Queen Marie

Vancouver, Oct. 15.—Excitement is running high in Vancouver social circles in view of the anticipated visit of the Queen of Rumania, and members of the Women's Canadian Club have decided to make every effort to entertain Her Majesty in a fitting manner. But the absence of a Rumanian consul in the city has made the matter of arrangements difficult, and it was learned Thursday that tentative plans have been made for her visit. The executive of the club has communicated with Government officials at Ottawa and also with His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor, but so far no definite word has been received.

It is suggested that the club give either a luncheon or an afternoon reception for the Queen and the Princess on the day of her arrival, November 5. And if the necessary consent can be secured for this event, the wives of all resident consuls and Miss Helen Mackenzie will also be guests of honor.

In any event some fitting recognition will be made by the club on Her Majesty's visit, and if it is impossible for her to attend a function, greeting in some appropriate form will be extended to her on behalf of the members.

Miss Mackenzie to Be Guest of Women At Mainland Event

Vancouver, Oct. 15.—On Wednesday afternoon, October 15, the Vancouver Women's Musical Club will open the season with its 211th programme on which occasion Miss Helen Mackenzie, niece of His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, has graciously consented to be the club's guest of honor.

Chapter Will Hold Ball on Birthday Of Crown Colony

The recent Mrs. R. B. McMicking took the chair at 2:30 p.m. yesterday at the monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid Club, I.O.D.E., held in the Victoria Clubrooms. Arrangements were made for the ball to be held at the Empress Hotel on Friday, November 12, to celebrate the birthday of the colony, Mrs. Walker being appointed convener of the bridge tables, and Miss Harrison in charge of the tickets.

The chapter voted $1 to the Soldier's Graves Fund, and $1 to I.O.D.E. work in India. Three members volunteered to tag on the Navy League Tag Day, October 23. Acting upon the suggestion of Mrs. E. C. Hayward, education secretary, the chapter will donate three books to be presented on Armistice Day to Sir James Douglas, Burnside and Beacon Hill Schools. Mrs. J. D. Gordon brought in an interesting report from the Local Council of Women, and the secretary reported that a letter of welcome had been sent by the chapter to the Army and Navy Veterans of Canada during their annual convention here. A letter of sympathy was sent to the chapter to Mrs. C. Edwards, who has recently met with a painful accident, and whose absence from the meeting was much regretted.

The members were invited to attend the annual meeting of the R.C. Historical Society on Friday, October 15, with whom the chapter is affiliated.

The splendid address of Miss Church, National president, which she gave at the recent annual meeting of the National Chapter, I.O.D.E., was read, and cordially endorsed by the meeting. After the singing of the National Anthem tea was served, assisted by Mrs. Harold Grant, under the convener'ship of Mrs. C. B. Walker and Miss Harrison and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

Conversazione Was an Enjoyable and Successful Affair

The conversazione held at the Reformed Episcopal Sunday School last evening under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid proved a most enjoyable success, and substantial addition will be made the Church funds as a result. A delightful programme included vocal solos by Mrs. Duncan McTavish, Miss Gwen Stubbs, Messrs D. C. Hughes and J. Kitley; recitations by Miss Pontifex and instrumental numbers by Mrs. Harman. Mrs. D. C. Hughes being the efficient accompanist. Mr. T. H. Laundy acted as chairman. Community singing was an interesting feature. Mrs. Helmecker ably leading at the piano. The Messrs Murray sold delicious home-made candy, and during the evening refreshments were served by the ladies.

Poppy Ball to Be Held Armistice Day

The Armistice poppy ball, which will be held this year under the auspices of the district council of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, has been decided upon for November 11 after considerable discussion by the committee. This appears to be the best date. All arrangements are now well in hand to make this function as enjoyable for the guests as in previous years. The combined branches of the British Empire Service League in town are all represented on committees, and any information can be obtained from the secretary of the Britannia Post, Box 415.

TO-MORROW'S APPEAL WILL HELP THIS WORK

The Dr. O. M. Jones Chapter, I.O.D.E., will to-morrow make its annual street collection in aid of its milk fund. For seven years the chapter has been distributing milk to undernourished children in the city schools, and the above picture shows a typical scene when the youngsters receive their daily ration of milk. Many cases are known in which children's lives have been saved through this beneficent work, which is carried on with the co-operation of the school nurse. It is hoped that the public will respond with its customary generosity when approached by taggers bearing the red boxes or the milk bottles which are to be used for to-morrow's collection. The headquarters for the day will be at the Melrose Paint Company's store, Fort Street. Miss Gibson and Miss W. Gregg will be in charge in the morning, commencing at 8 o'clock, and Mrs. Jordan and Mrs. Tallamy in the afternoon.

Appetite!

When you see an elderly man eating his dinner with the relish and enjoyment of a school boy, watch him help himself to Mustard. If it is not on the table, he will very quickly ask for it.

Those who acquire the habit of eating Mustard—of keeping their digestion keen and their appetite young—show a decided preference for freshly mixed Mustard.

YOUNG PLAYERS STAGE
REALISTIC QUARREL
IN "SUBWAY SADIE"

Dorothy Mackall and Jack Mulhall, two of First National's most prominent young featured players, had a terrible squabble recently. It happened right out in the street, too, and passersby prepared to send in a call for the riot squad. However, it was all smothered out and the young pair are now good friends. Director Al Santell was the peace-maker. You see, it was all part of a motion picture, of course. This pair, with Charles Murray, are featured in "Subway Sadie," which is the current attraction at the Playhouse Theatre here.

Dorothy and Jack became engaged, according to the story, and went window shopping in an effort to line up some necessary furniture. They stopped in front of a furniture store and gazed at a bedroom suite. It was of satinwood and Dorothy decided she wanted it. Jack, being a bit old-fashioned, figured on a brass bed because that was what his mother started housekeeping with.

And the row was on. It was a good one while it lasted, but Director Santell called a halt after enough footage had been shot. It is one of the real laughs of the picture, which, by the way, is filled with sparkling comedy.

CO-OPERATION HELPS
GREAT SUCCESS OF
COLISEUM COMEDY

Splendid acting, wonderful co-operation, and a masterly choice in filling the roles by the talented Mr. Redmond, in the scintillating farce, "Are You a Mason," at the Coliseum this week, combine to present a difficulty in singling out any one member for honors. Each member of the cast fills his or her part with perfect finesse. A very pleasing part of the play is the song and chorus by Marie McLaughlin, Gertrude Burton and Eileen Allwood.

CELEBRATED TENOR
SCORES SUCCESS IN
"THE WALTZ DREAM"

Edward Johnson, celebrated tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Company has good cause to be grateful to "The Waltz Dream." It was in Oscar Straus's operetta that he made his first great success. The piece opened at the Broadway Theatre, in New York, in 1908 and Johnson sang the part of Nux, the Prince Consort. With the money that he earned he was able to devote himself to serious study and finally arrived at the Metropolitan. He was among the first to see the screen version of "The Waltz Dream," made by UFA, which plays at the Capitol Theatre this week, and congratulated the producers on their faithful translation of the very essence of life in old Vienna of those gay days before the war.

NEW STAR OF FIRST
COLUMBIA THEATRE

The fact that "The Unknown Cavalier," which opened last night at the Columbia Theatre, is classified as a "Western," should not keep anyone from seeing the picture. It is a story told in stirring action, thrilling suspense, genuine characterization and sincere emotions. This picture is something new for First National, and introduces its new star, Ken Maynard, to the picture-going public. Maynard is a very personable chap: good-looking, and a really remarkable horseman and athlete. It looks as if the producer, Chas. R. Rogers, had made a real "find" in this new star. However, they have not relied only upon Maynard, but have surrounded him with a cast of well-known names, headed by the charming Dorothy Devore, who is co-starred. Such old favorites as Sheldon Lewis, Josef Swickard, J. P. McGowan, George Nichols, and the appealing child actor, Buck Black, make up a strong list of players.

CHARLIE PADDOCK
PROVES VERSATILITY
IN DOMINION FILM

Champions of any sport are usually satisfied to stay within their own field. However, there is one man who seems to possess an insatiable desire to conquer territory far from home.

That is Charlie Paddock. As holder of thirty-seven world records and a member of two American Olympic teams, it is inevitable that his name should be the answer to your question.

Consider Paddock's background and versatility. He first found fame at the age of thirteen, not as a runner, but as a dramatist. Later, while dazzling the world with track performances at the University of Southern California, Charlie also edited the school paper, was an excellent actor, and completed the course in a year less than the curriculum called for.

Then as a sideline, Paddock became a lecturer. He spent four years on a Chautauqua circuit.

Now Charlie's adopted still another career—motion picture acting. The fleet Paddock ran races with Bebe Daniels at Paramount's Studio while "The Campus Flirt" was being produced. He raced against time—in the application of facial make-up.

ALICE CALHOUN
INJURED TO-DAY

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—Alice Calhoun, film star, was injured in an automobile collision here to-day. A passing automobile took the actress to her home. In addition to bruises, one rib was fractured and her forehead was cut by flying glass.

MRS. MENJOU
GIVEN DIVORCE

Los Angeles, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Kathryn Menjou was granted a decree of divorce from Adolphe Menjou, motion picture star, yesterday after she had appeared in court with an amended cross-complaint for marital freedom which charged desertion and cruelty.

FORGERY SENTENCE GIVEN

Seattle, Oct. 15.—A C. Sellers, Seattle attorney, pleaded guilty yesterday to first degree forgery and was sentenced to two to fifteen years in the State Penitentiary at Walla Walla. Sellers admitted he had headed a group of men who had printed, forged and cashed thousands of dollars in spurious pay checks here last summer. Two of his confederates have been sentenced. In the same case one man is awaiting trial and three others are sought. Using his knowledge of the printing trade, Sellers told the court, he made the checks. As an attorney for an organization which protects merchants from bogus checks, Sellers learned the methods of forgers.

JAPANESE BANKS IN REALTY BUSINESS

R. T. Long, New York, Consultant Engineer of Mitsui Bank, Passes Through

The entry of Japanese banking concerns into the realty market of Tokyo is a feature of recent years, advanced by the need of modern office buildings and made urgent by the recent earthquake.

R. T. Long of New York, one of the most prominent constructional engineers of the United States, who was a passenger on the President Madison yesterday, has been retained by the Mitsui Bank as consultant in the designing and erection of a number of the fine steel structures that bank is erecting in Tokyo.

The Mitsui Bank holds many blocks of land in the heart of Tokyo, and at strategic points is erecting large modern office buildings with the view that the development of trade at these centres will prove profitable as a rental investment and multiply the surrounding land values.

SAN FRANCISCO SHIPPING

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—The City of Panama, Panama Mail Line, left this port this afternoon at 4 o'clock with a full list of passengers and a capacity cargo of California products for Mexican and Central American ports.

The motorship Bretagne arrived here yesterday from Papeete, with over 1,000 tons of copra in her cargo. The vessel made the run from Papeete in thirty-five days. With its arrival here, the Bretagne, formerly the Annie Johnson, of the Matson fleet, completed its first trip under the flag of the American Finance and Commerce company.

Work was started yesterday on San Francisco's newest pier, to be known as Pier 45. The construction work, which is being done by Healy-Tibbitts Construction Company, will be finished in five months.

Tonnage handled over the piers of the port of San Francisco during the month of September, 1926, showed a considerable gain over the amount handled during the same month last year, according to figures released yesterday by the state board of harbor commissioners. For September, this year, the total cargoes inbound and outbound amounted to 993,984 tons, compared with 982,820 tons for September, 1925.

The lumber steamer Coos Bay and P. A. Warner, are the first vessels of this type to be equipped with Kolster radio compasses on the Pacific Coast. The new devices were installed by the Federal Telegraph Company during the last two days.

COMPLETE REPAIRS ON BUENOS AIRES

Yarrows Worked Night and Day on Motorship to Carry Apples to Sweden

After being berthed in the old Esquimaux drydock for eight days undergoing repairs to the damage caused when she struck on the southern end of Pender Island, the Swedish motorship Buenos Aires sailed this morning at 2:45 o'clock for the United Kingdom and Scandinavian ports via calls at way ports.

Yarrows worked day and night on the motorship. Three shifts of men were employed and the repairs were carried out in record time.

From here the Buenos Aires, which is operated by the Johnson Line, will proceed to Portland where she will pick up a large shipment of apples, consigned to Sweden. This fruit is to be put on the Christmas market and it was due to this cargo that the repairs to the vessel were carried out as quickly as possible.

FISH EXPERT MARKS TWENTY-FIFTH YEAR OF SERVICE TO B.C.

Babcock Completes Quarter Century of Work to Conserve Fisheries

World-Recognized Authority Now in Middle of Effort to Save Salmon

John P. Babcock, British Columbia Deputy Minister of Fisheries and the man who put commercial fishing on this coast on a scientific basis, to-day completed his twenty-fifth year at the head of the provincial fisheries department. He is thus the senior deputy minister and executive officer of the Provincial Government.

The arrival of Mr. Babcock's twenty-fifth anniversary in his present important post marks a milestone in the record of Canada's greatest fishing areas, for the history of Mr. Babcock's work is largely the history of Canadian fishing on the Pacific. It was Mr. Babcock who first explored for the people of Canada their vast heritage of marine foods and it was he who first demonstrated the need of protecting these resources by regulation and control.

Now in his twenty-sixth year of service, Mr. Babcock is in the middle of a great attempt to rebuild the great salmon fisheries of the Fraser River and to save the halibut herds of the North Pacific. The success of these projects, now well under way, would place the British Columbia fishery head in a position of unsurpassed achievement among marine scientists.

It was on October 15, 1901, that the British Columbia Government brought Mr. Babcock here from California to organize its fisheries department. This move met with emphatic protest in some quarters on the ground that the new fisheries expert was a United States citizen. To this complaint the Government retorted that he was the best man obtainable in the world for the formidable job of conserving British Columbia fisheries and accordingly his work began.

EXAMINED FRASER
Mr. Babcock commenced with a survey of the Fraser River, then a stream which the sockeye salmon crowded annually, offering a harvest worth millions a year. It was a stream of mystery to the fishermen and the canner; scientists, to be puzzled by the peculiar habits of the fish and the fact that every year their run was far greater than in the preceding three. Ever since those early days Mr. Babcock has been studying the Fraser River salmon and long ago was recognized as the greatest living authority on the subject.

For years of observation and research he established theories about the Fraser salmon which gave scientists an entirely new conception of the whole fisheries conservation problem. As a result of this study, he was able to predict from year to year just what fishery operators might expect of the following salmon runs. And now, he is leading the fight for the restoration of the Fraser fisheries, practically ruined for lack of international control.

SERVE ON COMMISSIONS
In addition to his study of salmon Mr. Babcock made himself an authority on halibut, oysters, crabs and clams. Recognizing this knowledge, the Dominion Government appointed him in 1903 a member of a special commission to report on the fisheries of the Province and two years later he became a member of the Fraser River commission which dealt with the fisheries and conferred with a similar commission representing Washington State. The report of this commission led to the drafting of the first treaty drawn by Canada and the United States to deal with the Fraser—a measure which was rejected by the United States Senate.

When the Federal Government fromed a commission to investigate the fisheries contiguous to western boundary waters he was again appointed to act as advisor. The work of this commission led to the drafting of a second treaty between Canada and the United States, designed to rebuild the Fraser fisheries, but the measure was withdrawn from the Senate of the United States.

When Canada and the United States signed the epoch-making Halibut Treaty designed to save the halibut of the North Pacific, Mr. Babcock was appointed to the commission which is administering the agreement.

The commission promptly appointed him chairman, which position he now holds.

Mr. Babcock was born in St. Paul, Minn., in 1880 and previous to his arrival here was executive officer of the California Fish Commission. He became a British subject in 1914 and was active in Red Cross work during the war. He is a widely-traveled man, having circled the world in 1922. Last year he made a tour of Australia, New Zealand and the South Seas. Among scientists he is a well-known figure, being a member of the California Academy of Science, the Pan-Pacific Union and the National History Society of British Columbia.

SEATTLE SHIPPING

Seattle, Oct. 15.—An organization of Seattle shipowners, operators and agents was formed here yesterday further the interests of the shipping industry.

J. L. Burnside, district manager for the Williams Line, was chosen chairman. Speakers included Capt. Donald S. Ames, of the Admiral-Portland line; John H. Newton, district manager of the Garwood Line; Thomas Nielson, Newland Line manager; and a member of the National Service Bureau of the Shipping Board. Payne expressed a hope that the organization would grow into a national association of shipping interests.

B. Hauschild, Pacific Coast passenger agent for the North Pacific, Lloyd Service, and C. H. Walden, Los Angeles agent of the line, left here last night for Portland, Ore., en route to California, after visiting Seattle.

C. A. Whitlock, British Columbia manager of the Cunard Steamship Company, after a survey of the Pacific Northwest apple crop and bookings, said here yesterday that thirty per cent more apples will be shipped out of the Northwest this year than in any previous year.

The steamship President Madison, which arrived here last night, brought 4,000 barrels of silk from Japan.

PRINCESS LOUISE TO MAKE SPECIAL TRIP TO SKAGWAY

Will Replace Princess Mary on Scheduled Trip Out of Vancouver to Tomorrow Night

Extra Large Number of Passengers Coming South Warrants Move

In view of the fact that there will be an extra large number of people wishing to come down to Vancouver and Victoria from Skagway and Fairbanks ports the Canadian Pacific has decided to substitute the steamship Princess Louise for the Princess Mary on the regular trip to Skagway, leaving Vancouver to-morrow night.

Capt. J. W. Troup announced this morning.

On account of the Yukon River steamer Dawson stranding last Wednesday a number of people will be held up, so the C.P.R. decided to dispatch a larger steamer to the northern port. The Dawson was the last vessel out of Dawson for Whitehorse this season.

The Princess Louise, which operates on the Skagway route, is a 4,500-ton vessel, is excellently suited to this service, due to her fine passenger accommodation. She has nearly twice the accommodation of the Princess Mary.

The Louise, which has been on the night run between Victoria and Vancouver, will be replaced by the Princess Mary.

WORK PROCEEDS ON NEW C.P.R. STEAMER

Emperor, Formerly of C.G.M., Will Be Used By Company on West Coast

Work is proceeding on the installation of 'tween decks on the steamer Emperor, purchased by the Canadian Pacific Railway for the Pacific Coast freight business, as was announced by The Times two months ago. The freighter of Port McNicholl, formerly the Canadian Adventurer, is being overhauled at Montreal, following which she will load for this coast, being due to arrive here late next month.

She has a length of 260 feet, with a 45-foot beam and a deadweight tonnage of 3,400 tons. Built at Port Arthur in 1919 for the Canadian Government Merchant Marine, she was later sold to the C.P.R. The C.P.R. bought the ship from this company.

The Emperor will be used in the West Coast trade of the Canadian Pacific service.

Capt. J. W. Troup, manager of the B.C. Coast service, announced this morning that Capt. C. C. Sainty, one of the oldest of the master mariners in the service of the Canadian Pacific, would bring the Emperor from Montreal via the Panama Canal.

Capt. Sainty has the necessary deep-sea papers and is one of the best known skippers in these waters.

Officers who will leave here to join the Emperor will be: First officer, William Thomson; second officer, Melville Jack; and chief engineer, William Neilson.

These men will leave for Montreal shortly to join the ship at the eastern port.

JEWEL ROBBERY IN NEW JERSEY

Madison, N.J., Oct. 15.—A $20,000 jewel robbery was reported last night in the territory which had been covered and recovered by police in a search for the bandits who robbed a mail truck in Elizabeth Wednesday.

Edward W. Olney reported his home in Convent had been robbed.

HUDSON BAY ENGINE MAKES END OF STEEL

Train No. 415, Driven by Thomas Walker, Arrives at Kettle Rapids

Winnipeg, Oct. 15.—The Pas correspondent of The Manitoba Free Press says:

"The 1926 objective was reached on the Hudson Bay Railway when H. B. R. engine No. 415, driven by Thomas Walker, reached Kettle Rapids, Mile 322, the present end of steel last Monday, thus fulfilling Hon. C. P. Dunning's promise that the line would be put in shape as far as Kettle Rapids by the Fall of 1926. It has cost approximately $1,500,000 to do this rehabilitation work this summer and the remaining line sum of the present appropriation is already committed for terminal yards at The Pas, Mile 127 and Mile 248 and for other material necessary to put the railway into condition for operation from The Pas to Kettle Rapids."

WAGE ADJUSTMENTS BRINGS COMPLAINTS

Anchorage, Alaska, Oct. 15.—Brotherhood of the Alaska Railroad, a government-owned line with headquarters here, last night prepared complaints to the secretary of the interior that the road has failed to make wage adjustments ordered by the department two years ago. Leaders of the employees declared unusually harsh penalties are inflicted for infraction of rules.

Many Y.M.C.A. Activities Have Marked Active Summer

Coach Stanley Brauning of the Cincinnati Y.M.C.A. was largely responsible for the bringing out of Walter Laufer and Harry Glancy, two "Y" boys who electrified the world by their wonderful showing on the last American Olympic team. Also Walter Spence of the Brooklyn Association who has set world marks in back, breast and medley events.

The local association, although never having had time to specialize in swimming, incidentally has turned out some fine swimmers, some who are doing well in the aquatic world. Names that bring back the so-called "good old days" are Jamie Cameron, Johnnie Larson, the Bidlake brothers—Eustace, Geoff, Larry and Eric—Dave and Jack Carclay, Dick Beilby, Colin McFadyen, Al and Gus McKinnon, Archie McVittie and Billy Muir.

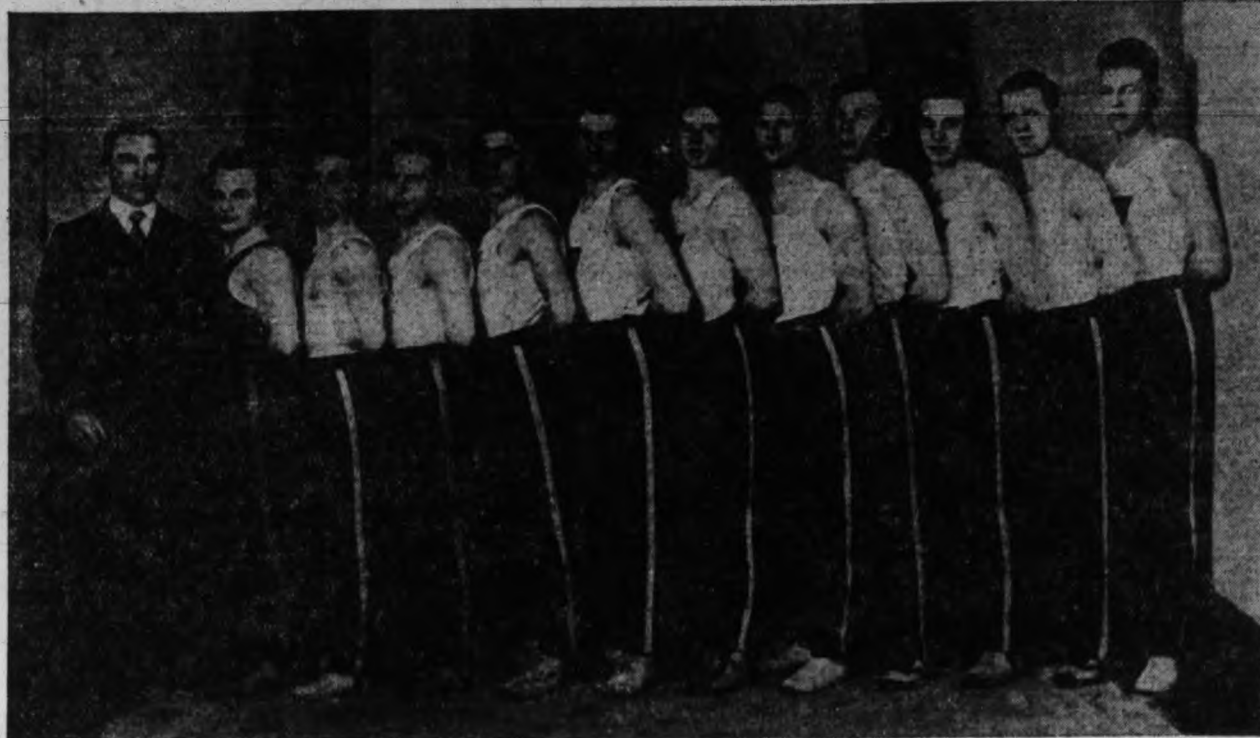

The present crop of "Y" swimmers who are sweeping all before them, some of whom the swimming coach thinks one day will blossom into real stars, are Bill Peden, Harry King, Laurie Greenwood, Godfrey Parrott, Bill Dickinson, Sel Calvert, Bob Gordon, Harry Robson, Chris Usher, Ed. Roskelley, Wally Connerton, Billy Moffat, Albert Young, Bill Clayton, Ernie Peden, Jim Walker, Wm. Pickard and Jim Muir.

ITS ACQUISITIONS

Victoria is very fortunate in having such a bright, airy and well-kept gymnasium. The equipment is very modern and consists of the following—wands, dumbbells, chest weights, stall bars, mats, boxing gloves, punch bag, which are used in the development of muscular power and organic vigor. The apparatus, which is of the very latest design includes 2 adjustable vaulting horses, 2 sets of parallel bars, 2 spring boards, 1 buck, 1 set of flying rings, 1 set of traveling rings, 1 low horizontal bar, 1 double high horizontal bar, 1 climbing pole, 1 set of high jump standards, 3 indoor vaulting poles, and 2 indoor shots.

There is locked accommodation for hundreds of boys and men in three separate dressing-rooms. A running track covered with rubber matting, twenty-six laps to the mile, a sixty-foot swimming pool and approximately a dozen shower baths, are also in great demand.

SENIOR LEADERS' CORPS, 1926

W. S. Maguire (general secretary), Archie McKinnon (physical director), W. Inglis, F. W. Sellers (president), S. Hill (secretary), N. Collins, C. Tomlinson, B. McMillen, H. S. Hammill (vice-president), W. Bremner, D. Park, W. Nachtrieb.

Enough extra paraphernalia is also carried to handle hundreds of games of many different varieties, including indoor baseball, football, badminton, volley ball, basketball and water polo.

SUMMER ACTIVITIES GRATIFYING

The Summer programme of the Y.M.C.A. has been especially gratifying this year to the physical committee, the main features being the tennis club, the Curtis Point swimming quarters at the auto camp on the Gorge, two teams in the soft ball league and a very successful track and field squad.

The Tennis Club had a most successful season with the greatest number of members yet listed since its organization three seasons ago. The courts are situated half a block behind the Association building on View Street. Many fine tournaments were played with other clubs on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. The officers responsible for this activity were: President, R. Whyte; vice-president, R. W. Jamieson; secretary, Miss B. Harkness, and treasurer, A. McKinnon.

The Swimming Club at the Gorge, although handicapped at the beginning of the season through lack of equipment, finished the Summer with a nice little swimming tank, a 20-foot diving tower, a three-metre spring board, a one-metre spring board and two forty-foot rafts.

MANY HAVE LEARNED TO SWIM

Swimming instruction was carried on three afternoons a week, Monday, Wednesday and Saturday, which was greatly appreciated by the membership and the auto tourists staying at the Curtis Point Camp. A social evening on Friday nights was also a feature which interested many.

Miss Audrey Griffin, Wm. Peden, Ernie Peden, Mr. Hadley and Jim Walker, were in a great measure responsible for the success of this venture and predict a wonderful season next year.

The officers were: President, E. R. A. Russell and secretary-treasurer, H. S. Hammill. The Y.M.C.A. soft ball team under Manager Wm. C. (Bill) Hudson had a very successful season, not only winning the "A" section of the league but also the city championship entitling them to hold the J. B. Clearihue Cup and The Colonist Trophy for another year. Individual cups and medals were awarded the following players: Manager, Wm. C. Hudson, Captain, J. Brindley, S. Moore, J. MacKenzie, G. Fraser, R. Whyte, H. Estlin, S. Beck, R. Stewart, A. Barry, F. Nobbs, Ted Cabbage, W. Sellers, V. Jones, A. Spiers and J. Clarke.

The second team entered in the "C" section under Manager W. W. Martin, although not so successful in the win column, played some very fine games and, with a little more experience, will make their older brothers step.

TRACK AND FIELD SQUAD

The track and field squad, under Coach McKinnon, who started early in the season to round up his athletes, practiced faithfully almost four nights a week under his watchful eye. They worthily upheld the Association colors at all the local meets and finished the season with a trip to the Caledonia Games at Vancouver, with one senior, J. Fouracre, and four juniors, J. B. Watson, F. G. Skillings, L. Nicholls, G. Dirom, who were successful in winning every event they entered including the junior relay. The

NEWEST DANCE STEPS FULLY EXPLAINED BY ARTHUR MURRAY

The Autumn is here, the time of year when folks like to get out and pick 'em up and lay 'em down to the mournful moan of a saxophone. And if you crave to learn the latest steps, well—

The Victoria Times has arranged with Arthur Murray, foremost dancing instructor, who is responsible for the latest Charleston craze in England, and whose fame has spread to the continent of Europe, to furnish fifteen lessons on the Charleston and its newest variations.

The series is easy to understand and is attractively illustrated. In it Murray explains the principle of the Charleston and then goes on to teach some of the latest steps of his own devising, including the Prince of Wales Charleston, the Paso Doble and the Charlestonette.

If you expect to do some dancing this Winter, you can't afford to miss this series. It's told so simple you can't help learning. It begins next Saturday in The Victoria Daily Times.

ARTHUR MURRAY

Rheumatism

If So Crippled You Can't Use Arms or Legs Rheuma Will Bring Quick Relief or Nothing to Pay

If you suffer from torturing rheumatic pains, swollen, twisted joints, and suffer intensely because your system is full of the dangerous poison that makes thousands helpless and kills hundreds years before their time, then you need Rheuma, and need it now.

Rheuma acts with speed; it often brings in just a few days the relief you have prayed for. It helps antagonize and drive from the system the deadly poison that causes Rheumatic agony, twisted swollen, unsightly joints and sore muscles. Rheuma is harmless—quick acting and one discovery that has forced Rheumatism to yield and disappear.

Don't continue to suffer Rheumatic torture—get a bottle of Rheuma from MacFarlane Drug Company or any druggist to-day. It must rid you of all Rheumatic pain or money back. (Adv.)

The argument had been proceeding for some time—the neighbors said, when Mrs. Sarah Gaslin, thirty-seven years old, shouted: "Here I go," and jumped out of the window. Her husband, Theodore, cried: "I am on my way down, too," and leaped after her.

The husband landed on his wife's unconscious body. Both suffered fracture of bones and internal injuries, but are believed at the hospital to have a good chance of recovery.

A SERIAL STORY

"The Unwilling Adventuress"

By MILDRED BARBOUR

"Of course—it generally is." His palpable sarcasm made her flush. He stared at her critically, really noticing her for the first time.

"Yes, you're the type," he decided. "You—er—look it. You're quite sure this little matter—this failing to get off the ship before it sailed—was not another notorious achievement?"

She met his eyes with withering scorn in her own.

"It takes just such a man as you—a man who was planning to elope with another man's wife—to think and say such a disagreeable thing."

He looked decidedly pleased.

"My dear—er—Doris," he said genially. "Our opinion of each other is mutual. Nothing pleases me more. I hope you will understand that when I have to appear lover-like for Aunt Ada's watchful eyes, I'll really be thinking what a joy it would be to wring your neck."

"And I," said Doris distinctly, "will be wishing I dared slap your face."

A perfect married pair?

He laughed for the first time that morning.

CHAPTER XXIII

For the remainder of that day and the others following Hartley devoted himself to Doris as assiduously as even the romantic eye of his Aunt Ada could wish.

He found a certain bitter amusement in saying rather sharp and biting things to her while he bent over her with all the ardor of a lover and bridegroom. Her amiable replies, her occasional mild flashes of anger, diverted him from his own gloomy and dejected thoughts. Moreover, her very attitude, goaded to new audacity, even when he felt a trifle ashamed of his own ill-temper.

If she had exhibited either the independence of the modern, efficient girl, or the supine helplessness of the clinging vine, he might have understood her. But her placidity, her calm, untroubled acceptance of circumstances, the ease with which she drifted into this difficult role, baffled him. And angered him. And stimulated him to further bursts of ill-temper.

He couldn't rid his mind of the idea, bizarre and unfounded as it was, that she was responsible for the equivocal situation in which he now found himself.

He argued that it was hardly decent of her to accept this trying emergency—so light, he thought—she had no right to gaze so happily upon a sunlit sea, no greener than her own eyes. It was wrong of her to find enjoyment in watching her fellow-passengers, in playing deck games with energy and relish, in dancing half the night to the seductive strains of the ship's orchestra, in eating with a relish the delectable viands provided by an excellent cuisine.

Food fairly choked Hartley. For the first time in his life, he sought and haunted the bar.

As a matter of fact, Doris was enjoying herself. She was having the time of her life. Hers was the type so constituted that it gives no thought to the morrow. Doris couldn't worry to save her soul. Life had always treated her well and landed her on her feet, without any effort of her own. Why should she bother now, she argued?

France—the return to her own status—the explanations to respective families—the transportation of herself back to America and the resumption of her interrupted music studies, were things for Hartley to worry about. Was she not doing him an actual favor by playing-out this posthumous farce into which his own infatuation had plunged him?

Inwardly Doris was rejoiced that for three whole days she had not had to throw back her head, open her pretty mouth and warble: "da, re, mi, fa, so" for hours on end. And this state of leisure bade fair to prolong itself into a fortnight, at the very least—provided even that an American-bound ship should be waiting at the French pier when Hartley was able to give the slip to his relatives and place his "bride" aboard for her return trip to New York.

It didn't even worry her that, in her purse, was only three dollars and ten cents.

Let Hartley do the worrying was her very sensible conclusion. And having reached this pleasant state, she proceeded to let nothing mar her enjoyment of her first ocean voyage. The only actual fly in the ointment was Hartley himself, for whom she felt the shocked contempt of a well-balanced young woman brought up to a rather stringent code. In Doris's straight thinking mind, Hartley was an utter rotter. She knew nothing of that charming alibi called "extenuating circumstances." Though she would scarcely have recognized him in its many guises when she met it, once it was called to her attention, it became very black indeed. She was unacquainted with its delicate, grey nuances.

To the conduct of Camille, she closed her eyes. She had an inherent respect for her own blood-kin. Aunt Elsie had taught her that one's relatives could never be in the wrong. Omnipotent wisdom, unflinching taste, and strict rectitude were the attributes of Doris's family. It had tried Miss Elsie's logic somewhat to account for the accident of Doris's father, who had deserted her in the railway station at Havre, but she had managed the discrepancy somehow, being the sort of woman who generally accomplishes what she has set out to do.

"The ship was one day out of Havre. Already the sea gulls, harbingers of land, had made their appearance. And passengers were straining their eyes for a glimpse of the chalk cliffs of England, quite as if they were shipwrecked mariners and not fortunate souls, who, on a floating palace, could scarcely say, after five days, that they had noticed the absence of the terra firma of Manhattan."

Hartley and Doris were dutifully pacing the deck and trying to look boisterous in each other's company. As a matter of fact, he was saying: "I've just learned from the purser that the 'Lebanon' is sailing from 'Charbourg' day after tomorrow. I'll see that you get aboard. So, be sure you're all packed and ready to make the jump when we hit Havre. For Heaven's sake don't miss that boat!"

"Rather!" laughed Doris. "But," she added wistfully, "I would like to have seen Paris once I'm abroad."

"Nothing doing!" he answered sharply. "You're going back to the United States as quickly as I can put you on a boat."

"And your aunt and uncle?"

"Are taking the midnight train tomorrow for Cannes."

"And you?"

He shrugged, his lips in a bitter line.

At that moment his aunt joined them. She brandished a fluttering scrap of paper.

"A wireless for you, Jack dear. The operator just gave it to me. I have an idea," she looked beamingly mysterious, "that it's going to be a beautiful surprise."

Hartley took the wireless message from his aunt, unfolded, and read it.

It seemed to Doris, watching him, that he turned all kinds of colors. He began to say something so unmistakable that Aunt Ada clapped her hands to her ears and admonished him in a shocked voice:

"My dear Jack! Remember your aunt—and your wife!"

He looked down at her wrathfully. Then tell me what this—this beastly message means? You must know something about it. It's from my father and it says: 'Am meeting the boat at Havre. Want to see your wife!'

His aunt smiled playfully.

"My dear boy! Of course I know something about it. You know how impulsive I am? Well, I thought it would be delightful to be the one to tell the good news to your father, so I sent him a wireless about your marriage and your honeymoon. I don't believe in making a secret of such vital things. You were very foolish to want to keep the news to yourself, but of course, when one's in love, one should shake a teasing finger at him."

Hartley thrust the message into Doris's hands.

"I'm going to get a drink. Perhaps it may save my reason."

His aunt tucked her arm through Doris's.

"Foolish boy! He's always so dramatic!"

Doris asked a trifle fearfully: "Is his father very—terrible?"

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Third Stone

Copyright, 1926, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

By HOWARD R. GARIS

Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty were hopping through the woods. It was the same day they had picked to see what would happen. Well, as I told you in the story last night, the red stone stopped a baby pig from crying, and whatever can do that must be magical, as Baby Bunty said. The blue stone was given to Squeaky Eekie, the poor cousin mouse, for a lock, and it changed her sadness into gladness. That, too, was magical.

"But it's just like the time we had the three sticks," said Baby Bunty as she hopped along with Uncle Wiggily. "We thought the third stick would do no magic, and now we're afraid the white stone which we have left will not do any tricks."

"I don't see it doing any yet," spoke Uncle Wiggily, taking the third, or white stone out of his pocket and looking at it. I mean he looked at the stone, not his pocket. Goodness! Why would he want to look at his pocket? He could do that any time. Besides, a pocket is very dark. Haven't you often heard it said: "As dark as a pocket?"

"Of course you have! Anyhow, Uncle Wiggily looked at the white stone, shaped like an egg, and he wondered what would happen so it might produce a little magic, or give him and Baby Bunty a chance to have an adventure."

"Maybe you ought to roll the white stone along the ground," said Bunty. "Then it might do some magic."

"All right," agreed the bunny gentleman. He rolled the white stone on the ground, but all that happened was the stone nearly hit the leg of an ant lady crawling along the path.

"Here!" she cried. "Don't be rolling stones on me!"

"Oh, I beg your pardon!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "You see there was no magic in that."

"No," agreed Bunty. "But maybe if you roll the stone the other way something will happen." So Uncle Wiggily did, but this time the stone bumped an old frog lady who was hopping to the one and two-cent store to get some watercress lolly-pops for her little girl.

"Please don't stone me!" croaked the frog lady.

"I'm sorry," said Uncle Wiggily, and to Bunty he added: "You see there was no magic that time, either."

"Oh!" exclaimed the little rabbit girl, clapping her paws. "Maybe if you rub the white stone on your pink nose something will happen."

"Always willing to please!" laughed Mr. Longears. So he rubbed the white stone on his pink, twinkling nose, but all that happened was a sneeze. "A-ker-choo!" sneezed the rabbit, and Bunty laughed. Then she exclaimed:

"Oh, toss the white stone up in the air and see what happens!" Up went the white stone, and when it came down on the ground with a thump, out of the bushes sprang the Fuzzy Fox.

"Oh, my dear!" gasped Bunty. "Keep cool!" said Uncle Wiggily. "What are you doing with my egg?" snarled the Fox.

"Your—egg?" questioned Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes, my egg!" said the Fox, sneering like and impolite. "That's my egg and I'm going to have it! After that I'm going to nibble your ears!" and he made a jump for the round, white stone.

"Be careful! That isn't an egg!" warned Uncle Wiggily.

"You can't fool me!" sneered the Fox. And with that he bit hard on the round thing he thought was an egg, and he fooled himself. For it was the hard, white stone, and the bad chap broke off five of his teeth and part of another one. "Oh, wow-zie!" he howled as, dropping the egg-shaped stone, he ran away. So he didn't get Uncle Wiggily's ears after all.

"I thought that third stone would be magical!" laughed Baby Bunty. "I'm going to keep it to scare foxes with," and she put it in her pocket. So now we have reached the end of the story of the third stone. But if the back steps don't run around front to hear the hand organ man's monkey sing the cat's cradle to sleep, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's lemonade stand.

She Was Weak, Thin and Nervous

One of the greatest strength givers and producers of good healthy flesh in the world is Cod Liver Extract—it's full of vitamins.

Thank goodness! that now, when a woman is weak and haggard and don't weigh what she ought to, she knows where to go for help as all druggists are now selling McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

And it's a mighty good thing for skinny, rundown men and women to know that they can get the real Cod Liver vitamins in condensed form, that they can easily carry with them wherever they travel.

Men and women, weak, thin and nervous, are urged to put on weight and get back their health and strength with these wonderful tablets.

One woman gained 15 pounds in five weeks and that's going fast enough for anyone.

Only 40 cents for 60 tablets, and if they don't put five pounds of flesh on any thin person in 30 days—why, money back and no quibbling about it, either.

But be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine. Vancouver Drug Co., MacFarlane Drug Co., Owl Drug Co., and druggists everywhere are selling lots of them. (Adv.)

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1926

Astrologers read this as a day rarely fortunate for all who dwell on the planet Earth. Mercury, the Sun and Jupiter are all in benefic aspect.

Under the sway all who go ahead without thought of failure or disappointment should succeed in an unusual manner.

It is a day to seek favors of every sort. One may even venture to borrow from a friend.

He who goes forth early to seek work to-day will surely find it, if there is anything in signs.

There is a favorable rule for money adjustments and debtors will do well to make payments to-day.

Advertising, especially that which concerns merchandise should be very profitable to-day.

Writers are well directed and there appears to be promise of a period in which remarkable literature will be produced in America.

This is read as a configuration most auspicious for all lines of big business. It is foretold that new combinations of capital will insure enterprises of enormous scope.

Trade competition is to be severe, the seers foretell, owing to the fact that envy and jealousy will enter into foreign contestants for world markets.

This is a rule under which to discipline the temper, for there may be an inclination toward sharp repartee and silly quarrels.

The rule is not favorable to domestic peace since deception and indirection are encouraged.

The wise will defer ocean voyages, for astrologers read threatened storms and explosions of mysterious origin.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of success which will be difficult to maintain. Promotion awaits employees in all probability.

Children born on this day may have minds of studious trend. Many of these subjects of Libra achieve much in the academic world.

AUSTRALIAN WHEAT ACREAGE INCREASED; BIG YIELD EXPECTED

Production of France is Down, But Northern Hemisphere Total Up

Ottawa, Oct. 15.—The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reports the receipt to-day of a cablegram from the Commonwealth Statistician at Melbourne stating that the area sown to wheat in Australia for the season of 1926-27 was 11,000,000 acres of wheat, and that, according to an unofficial forecast, the production would be about 150,000,000 bushels.

The prospects for the crop are good. The final estimate of the yield of 1925-26 was 107,445,900 bushels from 10,288,900 acres, and the annual average production for the five-year period, 1920-21 to 1924-25 was 134,797,500 bushels from 9,782,900 acres.

A cablegram from the International Institute of Agriculture reports that the wheat crop of France for 1926 is officially estimated at 248,608,000 bushels from 13,457,700 acres as compared with 350,842,100 bushels from 13,872,300 acres in 1925 and 272,000,100 bushels from 13,250,400 acres, the annual average for the five years 1920 to 1924.

Including the French yield the total production of wheat for 1926 in thirty-two countries of the northern hemisphere is reported as 3,201,804,000 bushels as compared with 3,254,000 bushels in 1925 and 3,995,731,000 bushels, the five-year average.

The world's estimated total wheat production (excluding Russia and China) is reported by the United States Department of Agriculture as 3,324,000,000 bushels in 1925 and 3,101,000,000 bushels in 1924.

Fatal Shooting in San Francisco

San Francisco, Oct. 15.—A repulsed sailor shot and probably fatally wounded Deola Todd, twenty-four, an attractive beauty parlor operator, here last night.

Emmett Healey, brother of a well known attorney here, was named by the woman as her assailant. He was being sought by police to-day.

The shooting was done in the lobby of an apartment house just outside the downtown district.

PERJURY ACTION AGAINST GREEN FAILS TO STAND

Judge Barker Throws Case Out of County Court When Crown Rests

Case Dismissed Without Witness for Defence Being Called

Judge C. H. Barker, in County Court yesterday, dismissed the charge of perjury against John R. Green when D. S. Tait, counsel for the defendant, moved for dismissal immediately following the closing of the case for the Crown by Joseph B. Clearhue. As soon as A. A. Dougan, who had been recalled to identify some letters which the prosecution was putting in as evidence, Mr. Tait rose to move for dismissal.

Counsel declared that he thought from the remarks that His Honor had let drop during the trial that he did not see the real reason why the defendant should be called upon to call evidence, since there was no case to meet. There was insufficient evidence to warrant the case continuing, counsel submitted.

His Honor did not hesitate. Unless Crown counsel had something more to offer, he was of the opinion that the case should be dismissed. The case was dismissed without a single witness for the defence having been called.

A. A. Dougan was recalled yesterday. Crown counsel asked him whether or not he thought Mr. Green was a director of the Cobble Hill Logging Company. Mr. Tait objected, asserting such a question was against all rules of evidence. Mr. Clearhue said he was asking witness a fair question. But His Honor overruled Crown counsel.

INTIMATES FORGERY
Under cross-examination witness swore he did not know that Mr. Green was ever solicitor for the Cobble Hill Logging Company. For all he knew, he said, Mr. Green might have signed his name to the minutes with "solicitor" after it, after he, the witness, had affixed his signature.

SHEPPARD CALLED
Walter E. Sheppard was called to identify four cheques and a promissory note bearing John R. Green's endorsement, and the stamp "per . . . director."

Mr. Tait asked witness if he were responsible for the whole proceedings against Mr. Green, and witness said he had laid the information. Mr. Tait asked witness if the four cheques and note signed by Mr. Green as a director and in his possession were the only things witness had when he first laid information against the defendant. Witness said they were not.

Mr. Tait asked why witness had not stopped the prosecution when he found out Mr. Green was not a director of the Cobble Hill Logging Company. Witness said the power to do this was out of his hands. He could not have stopped it, he said.

Counsel asked if witness had threatened Mr. Green, or intimated during a conversation that a charge of perjury was about to fall on Mr. Green's head. Witness denied this.

LAST WITNESS

A. E. Mitchell, the Crown's last witness, was called.

Under cross-examination witness said he had no recollection of having advised Mr. Copley to resign from the Cobble Hill Logging Company. Witness said the power to do this was out of his hands. He could not have stopped it, he said.

CLEARHUE SPEAKS

Mr. Clearhue proceeded to sum up his case and to attempt to show His Honor that the Crown had sufficient evidence to warrant a hearing of the defence. He quoted from Mr. Green's evidence in the MacEwan vs. Green trial in which Mr. Green was alleged to have uttered a perjury when he said he was not a director of the Cobble Hill Logging Company nor had he any other interest in it other than that of a solicitor. He had sworn to have acted in no capacity except as solicitor, said counsel. Here was the perjury, he added.

Mr. Clearhue attempted to show that Mr. Green admitted in a letter to Mr. Copley that he was intending to hold shares. Mr. Tait interrupted at this point to state that the letter did not say that he held shares but that he would hold them. Perhaps he never did. But Mr. Clearhue still persisted, and suggested that the shares held nominally by Mr. Hall had been in reality Mr. Green's. Someone had held shares for him, counsel asserted.

Although the Crown had not shown that Mr. Green was a registered director or shareholder, it had shown that he considered himself as such, counsel said.

JUDGE UNCHANGED

Judge Barker was not satisfied, he said, that the defendant held shares, or that he ever was a director of the Cobble Hill Logging Company. He recalled that there were some shares put back into the company but these had not been shown to be Mr. Green's, he said, and may have been intended for anyone, since letters showed that Mr. Green expected others to come into the concern. His Honor was satisfied that he was not a registered shareholder and questioned whether he could be shown as a beneficiary from these shares. That Dougan regarded his shares as his own was certain, said His Honor, since he tried to sell them. There was nothing to show that they belonged to Mr. Green. His shares might have been issued to anyone, either Halliday, or any of the others mentioned. They were lying in the company's office waiting for someone to take them. They were not Mr. Green's. There were questions of law involved in the case as well, said His Honor, and the whole case was so vague and questionable from start to finish that he felt he was unjustified in considering a conviction on the evidence.

"The thing is so vague, so broad," he said in conclusion, "and Mr. Green's attention at the time of his examination was not directed in any particular direction, therefore I feel I am not justified in finding him guilty. I dismiss the action."

Perfectly calm, as he had been through the entire case, Mr. Green rose, unmoved, and shook the hand of his counsel.

Brentwood

Brentwood, Oct. 15.—The regular monthly meeting of the West Saanich Women's Institute was held in the Institute Hall on Tuesday afternoon. The president, Mrs. T. Haddon, occupied the chair and the secretary, treasurer, Miss H. Maber, read the minutes and gave the financial report. The booth at the Fall fair had been a success and netted a good sum for the building fund. The programme for the Women's Institute conference to be held in Victoria next week was received. Mr. E. Rockon had donated a box stove for the hall and the secretary was asked to write a letter of thanks to him for the very welcome gift. Arrangements were made for the catering for the Board of Trade banquet on October 21, which the Institute has undertaken. Mrs. Wallace will be convener for this affair. It was decided to give a Halloween fancy dress party for the children on Friday, October 29, in the Institute Hall, Mrs. Lorne Thomson and the teachers, Miss Anderson and Miss Wilkinson, will be the committee in charge of arrangements. A masquerade will be given on November 12 and the date chosen for the sale of work was set for Friday, December 3. There will also be an evening entertainment in connection with the sale of work, the details to be settled at the November meeting. The benefit concert held last Wednesday was a splendid success and a full statement will be ready in a few days. The next sewing meeting will be held on Tuesday, October 19, at the home of Mrs. T. Walker, Brentwood Bay. The president then introduced Captain Ian Sinclair, who gave a most interesting talk on the "Use of Athletics" in the schools. He was accorded a very sympathetic hearing and given a hearty vote of thanks at the conclusion of his lecture. Tea was served by the hostesses for the day, Mrs. Freeland and Mrs. R. Sluggett, and a social half-hour enjoyed before the meeting adjourned.

The first of the Winter series of military five hundred card parties given by the West Saanich W.I. in the Institute Hall on Wednesday evening was largely attended, eleven tables of players enjoying a very pleasant evening. The first prizes were won by Mrs. Johnston, Miss Jean Peden, Mr. Overton and Mr. A. Guy at table No. 8 with twenty-six flags. Table No. 5 with twenty-four flags were in second place. The players at this table were Miss R. Hagan, Mrs. J. Osborne, R. J. Freeland and E. Gosselin. Refreshments were served after the game. The next card party will be held on Wednesday, October 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Sluggett and Miss Grace Sluggett have returned to their home in Victoria after spending several months at their Summer cottage.

Mrs. A. E. Hole, Clarke Avenue, is visiting friends in Victoria for a few days.

Mr. H. Gilbert has returned to Victoria after spending the Summer months at the Bay.

Mrs. Arthur Petch and her daughter, Sylvia, left to-day to join Mr. Petch in Atlin, B.C., where they will take up their residence.

The Brentwood Concert Company will hold their first meeting for the Winter season on Tuesday, October 19, at 8 p.m. All interested in the work of the club are invited to attend.

Mr. T. Bagley of Mount Newton Cross Road left on Monday on a trip to England.

Anglican services for Sunday, October 17 are: St. Stephen's, 11 a.m.; Brentwood, 3 p.m. and St. Mary's, Saanichton, 7 p.m.

CHANGES IN POSITION OF RUMANIA SEEN

Accord With Russia Is Hoped for; New European Orientation

Bucharest, Rumania, Oct. 15.—Momentous changes in the domestic situation, due to the renunciation by Crown Prince Carol of his rights to the throne and his retirement abroad, are foreshadowed by an important conference between General Averescu, the Premier, and former Premier Bratianu. The conference is the subject of the widest comment. The Lupta says not only were dynastic institutions discussed at the conference, but that it is stated in Government circles the two statesmen came to an agreement as to the attitude to be assumed by Rumania toward an eventual new-European orientation. In this respect The Adevărul asserts the postponement of the session of Parliament was due, in addition to changes which might have to be made concerning the regency, to a desire to await ratification of the Bessarabian protocol by Italy so that a direct Russo-Rumanian accord could be ratified at the same time.

St. John Globe Has New Owners

St. John, N.B., Oct. 15.—Hon. W. E. Foster, former Premier of New Brunswick, announced yesterday that a group of Liberals in St. John and throughout New Brunswick had purchased The St. John Globe from Frank B. Ellis, the chief proprietor, and his associates. The purchase was made last month. "The paper will be continued as an Independent-Liberal newspaper," Mr. Foster said.

E. W. MacCreedy, formerly editor-in-chief of The Telegraph, St. John, is vice-president and managing director of the new Globe company. The Globe, an afternoon paper, was
